[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
SPOKANE (Wash.) April 29.—A

Wardner, Idaho, special to the Spokane-Man Review says:
"Wardner had today the scene of the worst riots since the deadly labor war of 1892. One man is dead, another is thought to be mortally wounded and property valued at $250,000 has been destroyed by giant powder and fire. The damage was done by union men and sympathizers from Canon Creek, about twenty miles from Wardner.

"This morning a mob of 800 to 1000 men, all of them armed, and many of them masked, seized a train at Burke, the head of Canon Creek. There were nine box cars and a passenger car, and they were black with the mob. The visitors brought with them 3000 pounds of giant powder.

"After a parley of two hours, 140 masked men, armed with Winchester, Baskin in the lead and Wardner following, started with yells for the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mills, and other buildings a third of a mile from the depot. They sent pickets ahead and one of these pickets fired a shot as a signal that the mill was abandoned. This was misunderstood by the main body of the mob, who imagined that non-union miners in the hills had opened fire on them, and they began firing on their own pickets. About 1000 shots were thus exchanged between the rioters and their pickets, and Jack Smith, one of the pickets, formerly of British Columbia, and a noted figure in drill contests, was shot dead. The fatal error was discovered after a few seconds' firing. Smith's body was brought down from the hillside.

"By this time, the strikers had taken possession of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill, which they found deserted. The manager having directed his employees not to risk their lives by battling with the mob. Powder was called for and sixty fifty-pound boxes were carried from the depot to the mill. The heaviest charge was placed among the machinery of the mill. Another charge was placed under the brick office buildings. Other charges were placed in the mill. Then the boarding-house, a frame structure, was fired. Fuses leading to the charges were lighted and the strikers, carrying the dead body of the picket, retired to a safe distance.

"At 2:30 p.m. the first blast went off. It shook the ground for miles, and buildings in Wardner, two miles away, trembled. At intervals of about sixty seconds four other charges went off, the fifth being the largest and completely demolishing the mill. The loss to the Bunker Hill and Sullivan companies is estimated at from $250,000 to $300,000.

"In a few minutes the strikers went back to the station, the whistle was blown for stragglers, the mob soon climbed aboard, and at 3 o'clock, just three hours after its arrival, the train pulled out for Canon Creek.

"During the fusillade from the guns of the mob, Jim Chayne, a Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill man, was severely shot through the hips. It is reported he was carried off by the strikers and his wound is probably fatal. J. J. Rogers, a stenographer in the employ of the company, was shot through the lip, but his wound is trivial.

"This morning the 230 non-union miners at the Bunker Hill land Sullivan had warning of the coming of the mob, and left the mine and took to the hills.

They have not been seen since. Union men working in the Last Chance mine left the mine this morning, presumably to take part in the riot."

THE GOVERNOR NOTIFIED.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PORTLAND (Or.) April 29.—The agent of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon telegraphed the officials in this city from Wardner, Idaho, that the striking miners had fired the Bunker Hill land Sullivan mill and that it was burning. It is claimed that the mine is loaded with dynamite, and if this proves true the entire property will be lost. The striking miners are also reported to be in possession of the Northern Pacific and Oregon Railway and Navigation trains, and in complete control of the situation.

There are about one hundred masked men heavily armed, and at about the mill and there have been several skirmishes with the authorities, during one of which one man is reported shot.

There are fully 800 miners at Wardner. They are forming to go to the mine in a body and drive out the 270 non-union men employed there. The Governor of Idaho has been notified of the situation, and the Secretary of State has been dispatched to the scene of the trouble. The Governor has promised to do everything in his power to preserve order and prevent bloodshed, but it is believed that unless prompt steps are taken there will be great loss of life and destruction of property.

WIRE INTERFERED WITH.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
SEATTLE (Wash.) April 29.—A Times special from Spokane says that 600 miners from the Burke, Gem and other Idaho mines, heavily armed and masked, marched to the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine at Wardner, owned by the Standard Oil people, today. They drove the superintendent out and union men are in possession of the mill. They will probably soon have possession of the mine also. Full particulars cannot be had, owing to interference with the wires by the strikers.

CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
PORTLAND (Or.) April 29.—The present strike in the Coeur d'Alene mining district in Northern Idaho was inaugurated about ten days ago, and is directed principally against the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine at Wardner, where non-union men are employed. The demands of the miners for higher wages were not met by the owners, but the miners demanded that the union be recognized and that non-union men be discharged. This the mine-owners refused to do, and the Last Chance mine closed down. The Bunker Hill and Sullivan, however, continued to run with non-union men until today, when they were driven out by an armed mob of union men.

GOVERNOR'S REPRESENTATIVE.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
BOISE (Idaho.) April 29.—The action of the union miners in taking of Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine at Wardner is looked upon as a very grave matter by the State officials. Gov. Steiwer has been sick in bed for three days and is unable to give serious attention to the problem, though he keeps in consultation with other State officers. He has sent State Auditor Sinclair north with authority to represent him. The Governor declines to make any statement, but it is understood he is ready to exhaust every resource in enforcing the law.

The enlisting of volunteers entirely wiped out the State militia, but steps are being taken to prepare the remnants for service. The Governor has notified President McKinley of the situation and that it may be necessary to call for Federal aid.

MINES CLOSED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
SPOKANE (Wash.) April 29.—Tonight the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine is closed. When it will be reopened is a thing that nobody can say. With the mill wrecked it is impossible to handle the ore produced at the mine. The Last Chance is likewise closed down. It has been getting power from the Bunker Hill mine, and the destruction of those works will absolutely prevent the Last Chance from working for the next three months, or until its own compressor is completed. Meanwhile the total working force of the town is laid off. The working of the mill plant involves the livelihood of 600 men. The Bunker Hill mine, up to the time of the strike, had been working 360 men, and the mill 90, while the Last Chance altogether employed 150.

As soon as the first word of the serious trouble reached the town all the saloons closed up. Immediately the merchants of the town shut up most of their establishments. As the first shots were fired the excitement increased. Scores of women and children hastily made preparations to leave the place. Packing up their things they could gather up the crowd rushed to the depot. All were intent upon getting aboard the passenger train that was soon to leave for Spokane. Others took to the hills for safety for a few hours, hoping to be able to return soon to their homes.

COMING HOME.

Brig.-Gen. Otis Arrives at San Francisco.

Quick Passage from Manila by Transport Sherman.

The Grant Also Arrived from the Philippines.

Returned Officers and Sick Soldiers Aboard the Vessels—Both Quarantined on Account of Smallpox, Gen. Otis Talks.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Back from Manila with several hundred sick, wounded and discharged soldiers and officers, the United States transports Sherman and Grant dropped anchor of Meigs's wharf today. An hour later the yellow flag was hoisted, and both vessels went into quarantine. On the day a man had died of smallpox on the voyage, and Fireman Murphy of the Sherman had barely recovered from a severe case of varioloid.

Brig.-Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, U. S. V., was a passenger on the Sherman, as were the sons of Congressman Dalzell, Supreme Judge Wadsworth of New York, Secretary of State Hay and Senator Hale of Maine. The Grant brought Capt. A. J. Kelleher of the First California Volunteers, five ladies, and many officers and civilians. Both had hospitals filled with privates, most of whom are well, but all of whom are rigidly isolated on account of exposure to smallpox. The officers and ladies will be allowed to land tomorrow morning, but those in the hospitals may be detained several days.

Brig.-Gen. Harrison Gray Otis expressed himself as glad to see America and especially California, again. He is in good health, and will leave for his home on Monday.

"I left Malolos," said Gen. Otis, "two days after the rebel capital fell. The Sherman carried me from Manila next day. Of course, my information of affairs in the Philippines is stale. I am not surprised, though, at the news of the insurgents' appeal for peace. Ignorance, bigotry and oriental fatalism—their characteristics—have supported them so far.

"Aguinaldo and his advisors have deceived their followers utterly. The reasoning of the Filipino pretender and his assistants is peculiar. They had watched the opposition in the United States to expansion and to the Army Reorganization Bill, and said to themselves that the army proper was composed of only 25,000 men, the rest being sure to go home when the treaty was signed, while many of these 25,000 would be in Cuba and elsewhere. They reasoned that they could raise 70,000 or 80,000 men, and thus overwhelm the Americans with sheer numbers.

"They swash-buckled about and never realized their mistake until our guns brought death to thousands of them. They cannot fight a little bit. They shot over our heads with their rifles and into the ground with their cannon.

"Aguinaldo is paying particular attention to the accumulation of wealth. When we entered Malolos native priests, who ventured from their hiding places after the Filipinos had fled, told me much of the chief. They said he kept well in advance of his retreating army at all times, riding alongside of his treasure train, which consisted of several country carts loaded with Mexican dollars and the archives of his portable government."

"Several of his intimates are editors, and these have been most active in stirring up trouble and in helping him to connect his fearful proclamations.

"The Filipino losses have been heavy, five or six times greater than ours. On the day I left the Manila corps commander told me that our casualties, first and last, in killed and wounded, had been 1100 in the entire eighth army corps. I commanded the First Brigade of the Second Division and its casualties reached 235 in killed and wounded, or about 10 per cent. of the average effective strength on the firing line."

Gen. Otis said he did not care to discuss the policy of the government in the Philippines, but he believed in the imperative necessity of retaining the archipelago, now that it was in our possession, and enforcing the authority of the United States in the conquered territory, justly, but firmly. The policy of Maj.-Gen. Elwell Otis had been a wise one, and he had shown a strong grasp of the situation.

Gen. Otis saw Dewey two hours before he sailed. He said of him: "Dewey is the man of the age. I found him the same courteous, cool and strong commander he has always been. He is regarded in the Orient with the same lofty respect, admiration and affection as here. He has stood steadfastly at his post, refusing to take advantage of the government's permission to return to his own, as he fondly called his beloved country in his conversation with me."

Gen. Otis said that he has received orders to return to his home in Los Angeles, and there await action from Washington upon his resignation, which he tendered immediately after the fall of Malolos. He had believed the war was about over, and did not care to serve in time of peace. Gen. Otis received his commission nearly a year ago. He welcomed gladly his return to civil life, and will start for home Monday evening.

MADRID, April 29.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The man who was arrested at the Comedia Theater last evening with a revolver and dagger on his person, and who was suspected of having designs on the life of the Queen Regent, is an army veterinary named Chamearin. He says he was intoxicated and had no intention of attacking any one. The authorities attach no importance to the affair.

Bank Statement Changes.
NEW YORK, April 27.—The weekly bank statement shows the following changes: Surplus reserve, increase, $1,348,772; loans, decrease, $385,320; specie, decrease, $245,000; legal tenders, increase, $1,695,700; deposits, decrease, $804,300; circulation, decrease, $71,300. The banks now hold $25,524,675 in excess of the requirements of the 25 per cent. rule.

Prof. Schurman Doing Good Work in the Interest of Peace—Lieut. Gilmore and Party Said to Be Prisoners of War.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, April 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Even yesterday when Gen. Otis apparently felt confident the Filipinos were in earnest in seeking peace, the conservative officials here were skeptical. Today, hope of immediate peace was shattered completely, and though it may be wrong, Washington pretty generally agrees that our troops will have to smash Aguinaldo's forces some more before the islands are pacified.

The difficulty in making peace through diplomatic channels with the insurgents will be in the fact that the American officials must not even in the most remote fashion recognize the Filipino government, or anybody claiming to represent it. If Aguinaldo will call his advisors together and draw proposals which do not recognize any government in the Philippines except the United States government, such proposals will be received. President McKinley is very decided in his views regarding recognizing any government there. He would not recognize the Cuban government, and for like reasons he refuses to recognize the Filipinos' government.

Officials tonight are talking about allowing hostilities to be suspended for a time in order that the insurgents may come in contact with the Americans and learn more about them. Believing that the Filipinos are fighting under the delusion that they are to be oppressed, there is a disposition here to show them all possible consideration in the negotiations. But, in spite of all, feeling is not hopeful for early peace.

ENVOYS PLEASED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, April 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Sun's Manila cable, dated April 29, says the Filipino peace commissioners visited the Philippine wounded in the hospitals, talking freely with them, and giving each patient half a dollar. They expressed themselves as greatly pleased at their reception and treatment.

Col. Arguelles, senior envoy, was a member of the Filipino commission appointed to treat with the Americans last January. He said he believed that Lieut. Gilmore and the missing sailors of the Yorktown were now prisoners in the hands of Filipinos, and were being brought across the island from the vicinity of Balic by their captors. This morning fifty pack mules and twenty wagons with supplies were sent to Gen. Lawton at Norragay, by way of Bocave.

Chairman Schurman of the American Philippines commission, in an interview this afternoon, said he had attended a conference between American and Filipino envoys, and at the request of Gen. Otis, had given expression to the sentiment of President McKinley regarding the future government of the Philippines. After this the conference closed, but Col. Arguelles requested further conference with Schurman alone. The request was granted, and the conference lasted two hours. Arguelles began talking about independence, and then about suspension of hostilities, but Schurman declined to discuss these matters.

Arguelles said he thought a suspension of hostilities, pending the convening of the Philippine congress and a discussion of the situation by that body would satisfy the Filipinos, giving peace with dignity. Schurman explained that the insurgents were merely fighting for a constitution. They could, if their arms were laid down now, help the American commissioners to frame a scheme of government for recommendation to President McKinley, thus influencing the determination of the future government, and giving them more dignity than would a suspension of hostilities.

Schurman requested Arguelles to write to Aguinaldo, but he declined to do so. Arguelles impressed Schurman as being sincere and honorable, but not as being conversant with the secrets of

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—Yale carried off the honors at the annual carnival of relay races, held under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania on Franklin Field today, the wearers of the blue winning the one-mile, two-mile and four-mile championship relay races. Although Pennsylvania was disappointed in the outcome of these events, she is happy because one of her men now holds the broad-jump record. A. C. Kraenzelene, who is also the American champion hurdler, jumped 24 ft. 3 in., breaking the American record of 23 ft. 8 in., held by Myer Prinstein of Princeton. The latter was also entered in this event, but the best he could do was 22 ft. 2 in.

Over three thousand people attended the carnival of sports. It was a great success, over eighty preparatory schools and colleges being represented.
The greatest race of the day was the one-mile college relay championship.
There were three teams entered in the event, Yale, Pennsylvania and Chicago University. It was a most exciting contest between the first two teams. Gleason of Yale just beat out Cooke of Pennsylvania in the first quarter. The runners in the next quarter were Lucie for Yale and Kraenzelene for Pennsylvania. The latter made up the ground lost by his predecessor, but soon played out, and when the third pair of men took up the running Yale had a lead of twenty yards.

The final quarter was very exciting,
the spectators rising and yelling like mad. The fleet Tewksbury, for Pennsylvania, by a magnificent dash, almost caught Boardman, Yale's fourth runner. The distance was too great, however, and the Yale man won the quarter and the race by about ten yards.
The Chicago University men could not stand the great pace and were out of it after a half mile had been run.

In the two-mile and four-mile relay championship Yale's men got a good lead early and won both events rather easily. The one-mile relay race between Columbia, Cornell and Lafayette was also a good contest. The Columbia team winning by a small margin. There were more than a dozen one-mile relay races between colleges and preparatory schools, and many of them were very closely contested. The summaries:

One mile, college relay championship:
C. Gleason, C. T. Luce, E. R. Fisher,
D. Boardman, Yale, first; W. Cook, A.
C. Kraenzelene, E. A. Deakin, T. W.
B. Tewksbury, Pennsylvania, second;
D. P. Trude, H. B. Stack, F. S. White,
W. A. Maloney, Chicago, third; time

cial: J. W. R. Tewksbury, Pennsylvania won; J. R. Mulligan, Georgetown Uni-

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
SANTA CRUZ, April 29.—Watsonville met with defeat in the game with Santa Cruz this afternoon in the presence of a large crowd. Score 11 to 3. Up to the seventh inning the score was 2 to 1 in favor of Watsonville. Donlin's long drive to right field, which Whalen muffed, brought in two Beachcombers. In the eighth inning Burges knocked the ball to right and caused two more men to reach home. In the ninth, Santa Cruz made six runs. Watsonville's poor field work was partially responsible for the defeat, and the Beachcombers' heavy batting did the rest. When the game landed on Harper they effectually demolished his curves. Balz pitched a masterly game. In the seventh, with two men on bases, he struck out three Watsonvillians. The star play was Streib's center left field of a difficult fly, and Donlin's catch of a hot ball sent to center by Santa Cruz. Balz made 11 hits off Harper. Watsonville made 6 off Balz. Santa Cruz made 6 and Watsonville 9 errors. The pitchers each struck out three. Balz, three times; Balz and Pace; Harper and Morrow. The same teams will play tomorrow. Whalen and Donlin pitchers. Score: Santa Cruz, 11; Watsonville, 3.

AMERICAN HANDICAP SHOOT.

Probability That It Will Be Held in the West Next Year.

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]
CHICAGO, April 29.—The Times-
Herald says it is more than probable that the grand American handicap shoot will be held in the West next year. Already eastern shooters have broached the idea of transferring the great event from Elkwood Park westward, and the western sportsman stand ready to make all the necessary arrangements.

E. S. Rice, the well-known manager, has received a letter from Iry Bennett, vice-president of the Interstate Association, practically assuring Mr.
Rice that the West could have the shoot if it wanted it. Mr. Bennett wanted to know what arrangements could be made for holding the shoot here next year, at which it was of the Committee on Grounds and Location, the letter may be regarded as a direct proposal.

Before the western shooters left for the East, the matter of a western association was under discussion. It was intended to hold a great shoot in Chicago next year, at which it was asserted every shooter of note would be present.

stranger, appearing somewhat appeased

'But I'll lay for the lulu hereafter while I'm kicking around these parts.'

Then they resumed the game. The stranger's wallet had been considerably decreased in size, but it seemed to contain half as much again than he had lost in that big grey bag which he had beaten him. He needed it all, however, and he didn't seem as if he could win a bet. He was topped every time by hands only a little bit better, and it was really painful to see how he got niggered out when he caught some thing worth staying with for a while. About half an hour after the big play, he caught a fistful that induced him to raise it to the limit—which he did before losing it. Every man in the bunch appeared to have caught good stuff this time, and their notes only stood his before-the-draw raise, but went on kiting it. Again, at the stranger's suggestion, the limit was taken off before the draw, and by the time they were ready to take cards the pot was worth $700. Two of the sheepmen stood pat, and the man drew only his five from where he had picked them down, but nodded that he didn't need any.

"When they got through betting, about half an hour later, the pot was worth close on to $4500, and every man was still in the game.

"I call," said Denham, "because I'm too much to the good slaughter you call the stranger. The third winner on the

“Just a second,” Denham said. “You’re beat, you see. The lulu’s been playing once tonight. You remember?”

and therefore your hand isn't one, 'twouldn't be. George, (turning to one of the sheepmen.) Let's have a look at the other side of the sign." "The sign?" "George Mellen, the sheepman, addressed by Denham, rose from his seat, walked to the wall, took hold of the sign that upheld the lulu as beating anything in the deck, and turned it over. On that side was printed this: "The lulu can only be played once at a sitting." "The stranger no sooner saw this than he blazed like a wildcat: "This is a hollow tree. I thought that was about a good time to get away from here, and there, and I did. So did all the rest of the lookers-on. I had no sooner got outside the door when the fusillade began, and when it was all over George Mellen came out and asked us to give him a lift with the victims. There was a stranger had two bullets in his left shoulder and one in his right, and he was bleeding and by the time he got out of the Cheyenne Hospital the lulu had been so thoroughly explained to him that he admitted that he had been in the wrong in sitting in a game that contained kinks of which he was ignorant. Denham had a bullet in his stomach, and the other sheepman had a hole in his right breast. They both got well, too, and they played the lulu with the Cheyenne in the game on a number of occasions.

ORANGES INDIGENOUS.

Porto Rico Called a Veritable Paradise for the Fruit.

[Harper's Weekly:] There are two varieties of oranges which are indigenous to the soil, and grow wild in the dense thickets, yielding, under unfavorable conditions, heavy crops of fruit. The only orange grove cultivated as such of which the writer has knowledge, consists of fifteen acres near the town of Mayaguez. It is the custom here to leave young orange trees where they spring up, in the shade of the coffee plantations, in the fence

... and on the roadsides, no particular attention being paid them beyond the harvesting, perhaps, of what remains of the crop after the wandering poor have enjoyed many a delicious slice of stone for their benches. There is now another variety of orange in the island, which is bitter-sweet when green, known by the natives as "naranja" (the Spanish name for orange), in contradistinction to the sweet green orange called "chino." The trees differ slightly, in that the naranja has a supplementary heart-shaped pendant on the end of each leaf.

It is a veritable paradise this land, and will be for the American orange-roffen, who carries with him his often better experience and careful methods of cultivation, gained in the many wastes of Florida?

The thin-skinned lemon is not indigenous to Porto Rico; there is, however, a small citron which looks like an immature lemon, and is a hard round fruit, an inch thick, which cracks open as the fruit yellows. It is rather dry, and not very sour, and the juice is used with sugar and water as a beverage. The rind is highly aromatic, and has an economic value. There are no drawbacks to future lemon culture, the soil and the climate of the mountain uplands being very suitable. Sweet though they are seldom gathered, unless it be to make from them a sort of conserve, or to use them medicinally, they are considered of some therapeutic value in malarial fevers.

A Popular Young Man. [A Cleveland Plain Dealer.] There is a small girl in town who has a very large number of admirers, and hence, in the sister's fiancé, an admiration which she expresses at every possible turn. Being a very small girl, indeed, she goes to bed at 7:30 o'clock, of which arrangement she does not at all approve, as by it she only sees her future brother-in-law when he makes his usual Sunday visits. She has suspected the state of her car for some time, but being not sure of the truthfulness of her suspicions until the other night. Then she had a nightmare and woke crying.

Papa and mamma were out—in fact, everybody was out except big sister and the young man, so sister went up to comfort and console, a task which she found extremely difficult, until she said to herself, "You'd better look out for Mr. Blank! He is here, and you won't want him to hear you, you know."

To her surprise, the little girl swallowed her sob immediately, and was asleep in two minutes, while her big ister departed, congratulating herself upon her diplomacy.

But the next day that young man received a letter which made him open his eyes to the world with astonishment, and comforted the family when they saw it. It read:

"Dear mr smith y do you come in the night you tell my cister to have you come in the day so i can see you t is not nice to go out in the night and i love you more than my cister dose love from rose."

Not capital or punctuation mark in the whole thing. It was too evident that the schoolboy brother, who had, at her request, attended to stamping and directing, had not criticized

He spelling. But though the young man made his very next call in the night, in defiance of the rules laid down in the young lady's letter, he brought a box containing a peace offering, and no complaints have been heard from little Miss Grundy ever since.

At Frankfort, Ky., the jury in the case of R. Sommers, ex-sergeant-at-arms of the Kentucky Senate, charged with bribery, after being out a day and a half, failed to reach verdict. The jury stood eight for conviction and six for acquittal. Sommers was defended by ex-Senator Blackburn.

City Briefs.

Just for luck drop in and look around and over Desmond's bright array of summer hats and men's furnishings. It's a climax of style, a triumph of fashion, a wonder of novelty and uniqueness. marked to Heymer that he was about tired of people trampling his barley, and he intended to stop it. That Mr. Meyer was away, and that he was going to protect himself. Woodhead and Heymer both tried their teams and climbed the fence as had others, and so they, too, were among the offenders, and that was the provoking cause that brought about the assault.

Before any testimony was taken, however, Attorney Appel, who appeared for Ericka, moved to have the complaint set aside on the ground that it did not show facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. The complaint was drawn under the statute that provides for an "assault with a deadly weapon, or other means of force likely to produce great bodily injury," and as a deadly weapon had not been used the second general allegation was used in preferring the charge against Ericka. But Mr. Appel contended that the cause was general and the "other means" of the statute ought to have been set out in full. Apart from that contention, however, counsel alleged that the defendant had been an inmate of Highland, and has never been discharged, he being merely out on parole. To substantiate this claim, which would cause the felony charge to fall to the ground, Mr. Appel asked for a continuance in order that he might have time to get the necessary papers. The case was thereupon continued until next Tuesday to be rest.

EX-JUDGE CAMPBELL'S INJURIES.

Suit for Damages Filed Against the Los Angeles Railway Company.

A damage suit was filed yesterday by Alexander Campbell, Esq., the well-known attorney, against the Los Angeles Railway Company to recover $25,000 for injuries sustained.

The suit is exceptional in that such a strong array of legal talent is behind the plaintiff in the case, he being one of the oldest and most honored members of the Los Angeles bar. First there is George J. Denis, Esq.; then comes ex-Senator Stephen M. White, then Charles Silbert, Esq., the plaintiff's law partner; then Cole & Cole, and finally the law firm of Anderson & Anderson. With such a lining-up of counsel the trial of the case ought to be, and most probably will be, decidedly interesting.

The facts upon which the claim for damages is based are that on March 4 the plaintiff entered one of the defendant company's cars at Second and Spring streets in order to be carried to Spring and Sixth streets. He paid his fare and alleges that when about one hundred and fifty yards from Sixth street he noticed the conductor of the company on the car that he wished to alight at the crossing, and several times repeated the request that the car should stop. The plaintiff avers that no attention was paid to his request, and the car crossed Sixth street at a high rate of speed and carried the plaintiff about one hundred yards beyond his destination, and then stopped. While Judge Campbell was alighting it is alleged that the defendant's servants negligently and carelessly started the car and the attorney was thrown violently to the ground, and thereby sustained great and permanent injury. It is averred that his right hip was broken at the socket, the right wrist was broken in several places, and he was so crippled and lamed that he is assured he will have little use of the right arm or right leg in the future, and withal plaintiff alleges that he has suffered great pain.

STORTS CASE SETTLED HERE.

Gov. Gage in Court, but not Called Upon to Testify.

W. B. Storts, who was arrested at the instance of the Missouri authorities on the charge of embezzlement, and who inaugurated a fight for liberty through his attorney, E. A. McCarver, Esq., is speeding eastward in charge of a deputy sheriff. His fight at this end was abandoned suddenly and without any public explanation.

His first hearing on habeas corpus was on Tuesday last before Judge Smith, and was continued to permit McCarver to subpoena Gov. Gage in order that the warrant of extradition might be attacked, on the ground that the chief executive had signed the blank leaving his private secretary to fill in the routine details. Yesterday Gov. Gage, in company with ex-Senator Stephen M. White, appeared in Department One in answer to the subpoena, but it speedily developed that the habeas corpus proceeding had been abandoned and the order of dismissal was entered. The Governor then adjourned to Department Five where a case was upon motion in which he had interest in the old days before his elevation to the premier office in the State.

The arrest of W. B. Storts was at the instance of the Chicago Live Stock Commission Company, and that corporation instructed Mulford & Pollard, their representatives in the proceeding, to leave no stone unturned in the charge of the defendant. It is stated that while Storts is wanted under indictment in Missouri for embezzlement, that another indictment has been returned against him in New York, charging forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses.

The Chicago Live Stock Commission released to Storts yesterday from the institution all of his wearing apparel and jewelry, retaining, however, all the money, checks, and other credits, which are alleged to represent the profits of the sale of cattle which Storts is alleged to have embezzled. Inasmuch, too, as Storts owed bills around town, $75 was released from attachment to enable him to settle up. That all being done, he left the San Francisco United in charge of Deputy Sheriff J. D. Zistow, and will reach Missouri on Monday night. A second officer left Missouri yesterday and will meet Storts and his escort at Albuquerque today.

It is alleged that Storts came to grief through women, and abandoned his family in Slater county, Mo., upon being thus ensnared. Since the first of last February he has been trying to trail through the officers getting upon his trail through a letter to one of his friends. He was, it is averred, chased into Mexico and out again, and two weeks ago Charles Storts, his brother, telegraphed east that he was in San Francisco and that he would be in the hands of his hand upon him. When he went to put his hand upon him, however, he discovered that Storts had slipped away. A telegram to Chief White brought about the arrest in Los Angeles, with the various phases of contest in the courts that have all collapsed most woefully for Storts, who is now en route to the East.

DOCTOR'S BILL SUIT.

Manager Wakefield not Held Responsible for Employee's Debts.

In the suit of Dr. Wernick against Manager Wakefield of the opera company that has been playing at the Burbank Theatre, to recover $350 as medical fees for attending Mrs. Gregory during an attack of diphtheria, Justice James has given judgment for the defendant.

Manager Wakefield was sued as the guarantor of the bill, and throughout the complaint he was alleged to have guaranteed the payment of the doctor for his services, and the court has taken the view that the evidence did not conform to the allegations of the complaint. Dr. Wernick testified that Manager Wakefield told him that he would pay the bill, not that he would pay if Miss Gregory did not, but simply that he would pay in such case. Dr. Wernick's only stand in court could be on the basis of an original contract made with Wakefield himself. For these reasons the doctor got the bad end of the judgment.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Forty Licenses Issued and Seven Decrees Granted.

During the past week there were issued from the County Clerk's office forty marriage licenses, a larger number than has been issued for a very long time. In consequence of the courts being practically closed for two days during the week the divorce list was correspondingly small, there having only been seven applications for divorce granted. Six new suits in divorce were filed as follows:

Sarah J. Stewart against James W. Stewart, Janie B. Elliot against Isaac W. Elliot, Laura S. Stillman against Frank S. Stillman, Fannie Donaldson against Joseph S. Donaldson, Anna M. Darby against Spencer W. Darby, Ruth Rose against Joseph Rose.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

Miscellaneous Driftwood Thrown Into the Courts.

UNDER THE FLAG. William A. Gray, a native of England, was admitted to citizenship yesterday by Judge Trask, upon making proof and taking the necessary oath.

TWO MARRIAGE FAILURES.

Marguerite Miller was granted a decree yesterday by Judge Shaw, divorcing her from W. B. Miller, on the ground of failure to provide. The husband was an insurance man in this city, and the custody of two children resulting from the marriage was awarded to the wife. In the same department a decree was granted to Louise Schmidt, divorcing her from F. J. Schmidt, on the ground of extreme cruelty.

TWO INSANE SISTERS. A few weeks ago Christina Christman was examined for insanity, but was ordered discharged. Yesterday she was again examined and ordered committed to Highland as suffering from a condition induced by spiritualism. The patient is a native of Norway, is 39 years of age, and since her discharge she has been in the hands of a physician. The mania was infectious, this sister also became insane. Her name is Jane Johnson, and she also is a native of Norway, and is just two years younger than the other. She is suffering from a form of religious mania, and imagines herself back in her old Norwegian home. Judge Allen made the order of commitment in both cases.

HUNT MISAPPROPRIATIONS.

When the suit of the State Loan and Trust Company against Cochrane & Hunt, as bondsmen for the late S. H. Hunt, who was secretary of the company, came to trial judgment was awarded the plaintiff in the sum of $8000. Yesterday the matter came up before Judge Shaw on the defendant's motion for a new trial. J. W. McKinley, Esq., and T. E. Gibson appeared in support of the motion, which, after argument, was submitted.

ESTABLISH A TRUST. Public Administrator Kellogg yesterday applied for special letters of administration in the estate of the late Annie Kelly, who died on December 28, 1898, leaving an estate valued at $2000. Later in the day, in his capacity as such special administrator, he filed a suit against one Will Jordan to quiet title to lot 15, block 100, in the Homestead tract of the Pioneer Building Lot Association, and to have it established that the defendant holds it in trust for the estate of the late Annie Kelly. It is averred that the defendant came into possession of the piece of real estate subsequent to the death of Annie Kelly; that after her death he came into possession of $500, and out of this sum he paid to one Richardson $185 upon the purchase, and received in return a conveyance to the property.

WRIT OF MANDATE. Pierre Espin has begun proceedings against the Board of Supervisors to compel them by writ of mandate to issue to him a license to retail liquor at Spadra. It is contended that the plaintiff has had a license, and when he sought to have it renewed he was arbitrarily refused, and that after he had complied with all the requisites of the law as to petition, etc.

A MORTGAGE NOTE. The Provident Life and Trust Company of Philadelphia has begun suit against Abigail W. Conroy et al. to foreclose certain lands of the San Gabriel Orange Grove Association, on Mountain View. The mortgage was given to secure payment of $3000, executed at Pasadena in 1892.

RIGHT TO WATER. The Covina Irrigation Company has instituted action against the Union Trust Company of San Francisco, the San Gabriel Electric Company et al. to quiet title to the right of water in the San Gabriel River for irrigation purposes. It is averred that the plaintiff has such right under an agreement entered into between the several parties to the suit.

ON A NOTE. Martha Calhoun has begun an action against A. P. Hoffman et al. to foreclose thirty-five acres in the subdivision of the south half of the Rancho de la Mission of San Fernando, given to secure a note for $5000, executed in July, 1895.

HE SPURNED AUTHORITY. S. A. Davis, a Long Beach pioneer, 85 years of age, has been defiant of authority and has been ordered by Justice Rogers of Long Beach to pay $25 or go to jail for so many days. And the old man is going to put in the days. Davis has resided so long at Long Beach that he cannot appreciate the modern way of doing things. He has been diverting water from irrigating ditches, and while other ranchers had their days apportioned to him, Davis just went and took the water when he felt like it. As it constitutes a misdemeanor to divert water from irrigating ditches without authority, and as Davis was impatient of restraint, he was finally arrested, with the above result.

FULLERTON.

Deep Oil Well to Be Sunk as a Test.

FULLERTON, April 29.—[Regular Correspondence.] It has long been contended that the boring of deep wells would develop oil in this section in greater volume and of finer qualities than yet secured, and lately the agitation has taken definite form. A company is now reported in process of formation which will bring in eastern machinery adapted for deep wells, and give the theory a thorough test. The first well will probably be put down in La Habra Valley, where experts believe that the oil will be found in practically unlimited quantities.

BEAUTIFUL PARLOR FURNITURE

In considering Red Letter advertising it is well to keep these three important facts in mind.

First. Every piece of furniture in the house is offered at a reduced price. No baits are thrown out in window or advertising for the purpose of misleading those who do not happen to be good judges of value.

Second. Every article offered at this sale is practically new within the last forty-five days.

Third. At no previous Red Letter Sale has the variety been anywhere near so great as now.

All furniture shown was especially gathered for the present occasion. The greater portion has been made up especially by manufacturers with whom we have dealt for years and who practically confine their finest productions to us.

All sales at the Red Letter reduced price must be closed with instant spot cash.

ANAHEIM.

Engineer's Victory in Africa—Side-walk Destroyers Again.

ANAHEIM, April 29.—[Regular Correspondence.] Word has been received of the completion by Constructing Engineer Jack Rogers, of this city, of an immense dam at Moddefontaine, South Africa. Mr. Rogers put the work through in just half the time required on previous jobs of like character in Africa, breaking all records. The successful completion of the work in such quick time is considered a big victory over English and French engineers, who have heretofore had an almost complete monopoly of this class of structural work in Africa.

Further difficulty is being encountered in the city with property owners, who deem it their privilege to plow up sidewalks and cultivate the ground. The offenders of several weeks ago, who were ordered to cease operations or prepare to stand prosecution, have kept right ahead. Others have joined them, and the city of the City Trustees has been entirely ignored.

Notice has been given by the water company of intention to widen bridges and culverts in the city limits to the full width of the streets. Other street improvements are to be made.

The Rex Oil Company has sold the city five cars of Puller oil, said to be of a better grade than the Los Angeles product, heretofore used, at $1.25 per barrel, delivered at the power-house tank and put in the days. Davis has resided so long at Long Beach that he cannot appreciate the modern way of doing things. He has been diverting water from irrigating ditches, and while other ranchers had their days apportioned to him, Davis just went and took the water when he felt like it.

As it constitutes a misdemeanor to divert water from irrigating ditches without authority, and as Davis was impatient of restraint, he was finally arrested, with the above result.

A CHINESE IRISHMAN.

One Was Naturalized at Tucson, Ariz., Recently.

[Tucson Star.] A most novel and interesting application was made before the District Court yesterday afternoon, and so far as can be ascertained, it is the first of its kind ever made in the United States. Attorney Charles E. Blumman appeared for Thomas Quinn and applied to the court that he become a naturalized citizen of the United States. Quinn's father was a Chinaman. Ah Quinn by name, and his mother was an Irishwoman named Mary Refferty. He was born under the British flag and produced his certificate of birth, which showed on its face that his father and mother were not married and that consequently he was an illegitimate child. Mr. Blumman admitted that the Chinese exclusion act and the naturalization acts strictly prohibited citizenship to a Chinaman not born in this country or to any person of Chinese descent. But in a long and interesting argument Mr. Blumman concluded that under the common law and also under the laws of the United States, as applicant was nobody's son, and therefore had no father in the eyes of the law, but that he must take his origin and nationality solely from his mother. Many authorities were cited in support of his contention, and the court considered them so conclusive that it was ordered that Quinn was entitled to be naturalized. Messrs. C. H. Berry, Charles Edwards and the applicant were then examined by counsel as witnesses, and the necessary qualifications having been found, Judge Quinn had resided continuously in Tucson for ten years, he was admitted to citizenship.

THE NATIONAL DRINK

NEWMARK'S HAWAIIAN BLEND

Admiral Dewey knows a thing or two. A year ago tomorrow, in the great battle on Manila Bay, he withdrew his ships from the fight for an hour, in order that the men behind the guns might be refreshed with a good cup of coffee.

Good coffee arms you for the day's battle. Newmark's HAWAIIAN BLEND, imported direct from the Islands, is the coffee you are looking for. It is the very finest of the Hawaiian product, which is the finest in the world. It is perfectly roasted, blended and packed in handsome, dust-proof, one-pound boxes, which all progressive grocers sell at 35c. It is never sold in bulk.

If your grocer does not keep HAWAIIAN BLEND, send his name and your order to us and we will see you get it. HAWAIIAN BLEND coffee is always uniform in quality, rich, delicious, aromatic. Give it a trial the next time you order coffee.

SOME GROUNDS OF OPPOSITION TO THE SIGNATURE LAW.

Very few, comparatively, of the newspapers of the State are obeying the so-called "signature law," and fewer still uphold it. Once in a while a publication is found which ventures upon an attempt to defend the law, and the result is a very weak defense indeed. This is natural, as the would-be defenders of the law have the heavy end of the load, and have practically no ground upon which to build a defense of this ridiculous law. One of these would-be defenders, a local publication known as the Western Graphic, has this to say:

"Those newspapers that denounce the signature law and declare they will not obey it or hope to prejudice people in its disfavor by its derision ought to hear what is said of it outside of said newspaper offices; for, really, the writer has heard not a single voice raised against it outside of a few owners and editors-in-chief of newspapers. It has gradually dawned long ago upon many minds that the time was not far distant when yellow journalism, brutal journalism and blackguard journalism had passed the limit, and that something drastic would be done in the premises. It would seem to us that the law was altogether too severe; yet, nevertheless, we are not so sure that the courts will not uphold it. It does destroy impersonal journalism, which, carried out respectfully, has been the cornerstone of the structure; but the drastic remedy shall forever squelch the present system of inhuman bounding and blackguarding and blackmailing and cartooning of strictly good people—who generally happen to have no newspaper to reply to brutal attacks upon their character or personality. It will result in improving the newspaper code and attain that permanent journalistic fairness that neither court nor whip nor fist nor gun has succeeded in bringing about."

The TIMES has no word of defense or apology for "yellow journalism, brutal journalism and blackguard journalism," and would offer no particular objection to the doing of "something drastic" to put additional checks upon those varieties of journalism, if such a thing were legitimately possible. But the Morehouse law does nothing of the kind. It places no additional safeguards between the public and libelous publications. It does not increase the responsibility of publishers, for they are held to strict accountability for what they publish, under the existing law. The writer of a libelous article, under the law as it existed before the Morehouse bill was passed, was held jointly responsible with the publisher for the libelous publication. It is never very difficult, in case of prosecution, to ascertain the name of the writer of an article complained of.

The only effect of the Morehouse law, if it were generally obeyed, would be to fix the identity of the writer in a suit for libel. The publisher will still be held responsible, as before, and the writer will be held responsible to the same extent that he was before, and no more. The worst feature of the law is that it permits any person outside of those directly interested to bring suit against the publisher, and awards him one-half of the sum recovered from the publisher by such action. This provision of the act, in conjunction with that requiring articles to be signed, is designed to restrain the liberty of the press, and is therefore clearly unconstitutional.

There is no need whatever for this law, for the statutes as they existed before the act was passed afforded ample protection against libel, and clearly fixed and defined the responsibility for the publication of libelous matter. The same observation, with some modifications, applies to the "anti-cartoon" act. It may be that some amendment of the law was needed to define and limit the publication of libelous matter in the form of cartoons. No reputable publisher would object to any reasonable amendment of the law in this direction. If amendment were needed. But the sweeping provisions of the anti-cartoon act are an unwarranted infringement of the constitutional rights of the press, and as such are plainly invalid.

If these absurd laws should be upheld by the Supreme Court, the next step of legislative newspaper-haters would probably be even more subversive of individual and constitutional rights. For example, a law would probably be enacted providing that the name of no man should be mentioned in a newspaper without his permission. Such a law, if it could be enforced, would make the publication of real newspapers impossible, for reasons which are obvious.

Resistance to these unjust and unconstitutional laws is in the interest of popular freedom. It is in no spirit of anarchy that THE TIMES refuses to obey these ridiculous enactments, which were engineered through the Legislature by men who had conceived a hatred for the newspapers because their public acts had been severely criticized by the press, in the exercise of its duty to the public. THE TIMES is acting from the dictates of mature and deliberate judgment in declining to obey these laws. Its primary object in taking this course is to force a test of their validity. It invites prosecution under either or both of them. It will refuse to consider them the law of the land unless they shall be declared valid by the highest judicial tribunal before which they can be brought for a test. If they should, by any chance, be declared constitutional, they must, of course, be obeyed until they shall have been repealed, which would certainly not be far in the future, should they be sustained by the courts, which contingency is altogether improbable.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

The Mayor disapproves of that section of the much-discussed and frequently-changed liquor ordinance which permits drug stores to turn themselves into full-blown liquor establishments for the nominal license of $2.50 per month. Mr. Eaton suggested, as a modification of the ordinance, that drug stores shall not be permitted to display liquors in their windows, or to advertise them, either by circular, price list or in any other way. The Council approved of the first suggestion, but disapproved the second.

This is all right, as far as it goes; but it does not go nearly far enough. As THE TIMES has frequently said, it is manifestly unreasonable and unjust to permit drug stores to do a big trade in the sale of alcoholic beverages, not only on week days, but on Sundays, when the regular saloons, which contribute $50 a month toward the expenses of a city government, are not allowed to sell drinks. If druggists want to compete for the custom of an ever-thirsty public, they ought at least to be made to pay the same license as the saloons.

Another feature of the local liquor legislation is open to severe criticism. THE TIMES has already referred to the case of a prominent restaurant on Spring street, much frequented by women and children, whose proprietor recently applied for and received from the Police Commissioners a saloon license, although he was unable to obtain the consent of property-owners representing the necessary amount of frontage on the block, even after he had been obligingly helped out by one of the officials who is charged with protecting the public interests. This restaurant has now added to its menu a long list of spirituous liquors, with the significant intimation that they will be served either in glasses "or in small cups." We may now expect to see many girls and young people initiated into the pleasures of the insidious cocktail and other appetizing alcoholic beverages, the appetite for which, when once acquired, is very difficult to get rid of. Much has been said by the head of the present reform Board of Police Commissioners in regard to the dangers that lurk in back rooms of saloons, and what has thus been said is undoubtedly true, but there is far more danger in the sale of liquors in restaurants frequented by the general public, because people who visit the private rooms attached to saloons usually know what they are doing, and run into temptation more or less deliberately.

As THE TIMES has previously stated the reform programme of the present Board of Police Commissioners, so far as the regulation of the liquor traffic is concerned, is what Dunderberg would call "one of those things no fellow can find out."

Admiral Kautz's letter was all right, but the giving of it to print by the indiscreet person to whom it was addressed, was all wrong. Our soldiers and sailors should be careful about selecting as the recipients of their letters individuals who have plain, ordinary horse sense.

PROGRESS IN IRELAND.

The measure of liberty that has been accorded to the Irish people in the past quarter of a century indicates the changes that have taken place in the temper of the British government toward its Irish subjects. Every concession has been eagerly utilized, and prosperity and the ownership of property are fast converting the Irish peasant into a law-abiding citizen, who exercises toward the dominant government the measure of tolerance it grants to him.

The past year has witnessed a moral awakening among civilized nations. The preponderance of the humanitarian sentiment as a factor in national policy has profoundly affected the British conscience. Realizing, as England has long done, that her treatment of Ireland is a blot upon the fair page of her history, she has nevertheless been slow to right the wrong, and obstinate in clinging to a proven error.

Since 1885 a marvelous evolution has been taking place in Ireland. In that year the Irish were placed upon the same footing, with respect to voting for their representatives in Parliament, as were the other subjects of the United Kingdom. Previous to that time the conditions under which suffrage was exercised were a gross discrimination in favor of the landlords, and nullified completely Pitt's promises to the Irish people when the union was contemplated, that "Irishmen should have all the privileges of other British subjects."

The land purchase act permitted tenants, so long debarred from ownership in the soil, to become landed proprietors, and the recent establishment of county councils has transferred the powers held by the grand juries and other boards formerly controlled in the interests of the landlords to the hands of the Irish peasantry. The first election under the "County Council act," which was recently held, gave twenty-eight of the thirty-two counties a majority for nationalism, and placed within the hands of the home-rule contingent not only the power to levy, collect and appropriate taxes for local purposes, but also such a substantial majority in Parliament that it insures safety from any reactionary legislation.

This experiment in home rule was so quietly inaugurated the other day that the busy world, absorbed in the eastern question, and the consideration of social and economic problems nearer home, evidently failed to comprehend that the hopes of Emmet, Parnell and Gladstone were about to be realized, and that at last England has, of her own free will, accorded that justice to Ireland which could not be forcibly wrested from her.

Following close upon the elections came a call for a convention of Nationalists to confer as to the legislation most needed to advance the interests of the Irish people. This assembly is to consist of representatives from every district in the country, and will be virtually a Parliament without the law-making power. Reform in local government will also be considered, and the local improvements advisable for the good of the country in general.

There was little pretext, until within the last quarter of a century, that Ireland was governed for the benefit of the Irish people, or that they had any rights that the landlords were bound to respect. When the labors of her great patriots and statesmen had brought about a qualified recognition of Ireland's rights, the next step was to secure local self-government. This work has finally been accomplished by the Conservative party, that in many respects seems to have changed places, of late, with the Liberals, for the Conservatives brought about the passage of the County Council act, which gives Ireland an opportunity to school herself for self-government, and learn in these small Parliaments how to conduct national affairs.

What the Irish people might have been today, if they had been allowed to develop naturally, who can undertake to say? Their conquest began hundreds of years ago, and fierce, passionate and gifted, they have never ceased to struggle against fate. Hatred to England and hatred to Protestantism grew side by side, fostered by the same causes, and from the time of Henry VIII the work of making the Irish the irreconcilable enemies of the English people was steadily carried forward up to Queen Anne's reign, and every blunder possible to selfish and bigoted legislators in that time, and since, has been perpetrated in the government of Ireland, bringing forth murder, arson and violence of every sort as a natural consequence.

To the genius of Ireland, America owes a debt which we are proud to recognize. Although, without inherent love of law and order, we have had little sympathy with the brutal methods often used by the Irish in their contests with the landlords, we are free to admit that the course taken in their political education was not such as would inspire a spirit of gentleness. We cannot excuse the cruelties of Ireland's internecine wars, but we can plead the desperation of a people bereft of hope. Under the favoring influences of American liberty, the Irish stock has borne noble flower in our free soil. Ireland has furnished to our army and navy some of the sternest men of which were forged our victories. It has given us statesmen, poets, orators and preachers, and the Irish blood has modified the heavy and stolid qualities of our Teutonic inheritance, deepened the vivacity that comes to us from the Latin, and imparted fire to those elements we call the Anglo-Saxon.

It is about time for Los Angeles to wake up and build a hall comparing favorably with anything of the kind in the country.

A Missouri cyclone is far more deadly than an army of Filipinos with guns in their hands.

leadership, can follow a leader of his own choosing in any torrid cause, and be loyal through good and evil. That he has great failings, in his own country, judged by the standard of a progress in which he has been unable to share, may be conceded, but he is entitled to fair play, and the career of Irish home rule will be watched with an interest born of admiration for the gallant struggle made by the Irish people, and with a supreme faith in the ultimate destiny of the Celt.

A FRIGHTENED ORGAN.

"Shall we have a King?" asks our more or less esteemed cotemporary, the Herald, in leading editorial type which fairly trembles with suppressed emotion, vague apprehension and indefinable dread.

The more or less esteemed Herald, after asking this blood-curdling question, goes on in shuddering type to show whether we are drifting. With as much coherency as he can command through his chattering teeth, the editor assures us that, if things go on as they are going at present, it is only a question of time when we shall be transformed from sovereign citizens of a free republic, to subjects of an Emperor—or words to that effect.

This badly-scared editor bases his dire prognostications, chiefly, upon two propositions, viz.: (1.) The Republican party favored bimetalism in 1896, provided it could be brought about by international cooperation, but now favors the single gold standard. (2.) "There is abroad in the land today a sentiment in favor of imperialism—not simply imperialism with respect to the Philippines and other conquered possessions, but for the United States as well." Coming right down to the pith of the matter, this horror-stricken editor expresses a burning desire to "go on record with a prediction," and proceeds to do the same, as follows:

"The prediction which we wish to record is this: If the Republican party, as the acknowledged representative of the privileged and wealthy classes—the covert champion of trusts and combinations—the exponent of imperialism in our foreign policy—should be successful in the next Presidential election, we may as well prepare for the succeeding step, the open advocacy of a constitutional monarchy for this country. It is coming as surely and is even less disguised than was the advocacy of the English gold standard."

In support of his fearful and frantic prophecy, the terrified editor of the More or Less Esteemed quotes from a lecture recently delivered by "one of them d-d literary fellows"—to wit, Prof. Moses of the University of California—in which the opinion is expressed, in substance, that there are some weak points in our system of representative government. In the hope that the aguish fears of our brother editor and fellow-man of the Herald may be somewhat allayed, THE TIMES will briefly cite a few facts for his consideration.

(1.) The Republican party is now virtually unanimous in favor of the single gold standard, for the reason that it has been practically demonstrated that it is the safest, best, and wisest standard, and that a double standard, under existing conditions, by international agreement or otherwise, is impossible. Most of the silver-standard countries are adopting the gold standard, and even Mexico is seriously contemplating that step. All this has nothing to do with the question of a King for the United States, to be sure, but it is a simple statement of the truth.

(2.) The Republican party is not, never has been, and never will be, the representative, acknowledged or otherwise, of "the privileged and wealthy classes." The Republican party is the representative and exponent of the vital principles of American progress, freedom, and "strenuous life," as opposed to reaction and degeneracy.

(3.) The Republican party is not, never has been, and never will be "the covert champion of trusts and combinations." On the contrary, a Republican Congress enacted the only national anti-trust law ever passed. And, as a matter of fact, the question of trusts and combinations is in no sense a political issue, and cannot be made such.

(4.) The Republican party is not "the exponent of imperialism" in our policy, foreign or domestic, for the very good reason that no such thing as an imperialistic policy exists.

As the fears at which our brother editor stands aghast are founded principally upon the false premises above noted, he should calm his perturbed spirit and take a more optimistic view of things.

LET US HAVE A HALL.

The coming gathering in Los Angeles of a great crowd of teachers from all parts of the country has brought prominently before our people the need of a first-class, up-to-date hall, of large capacity. Los Angeles is becoming noted all over the country as a convention city, and it is about time that we should have a hall in accordance with our reputation as hospitable and whole-souled entertainers. Kansas City has a magnificent structure of this kind, costing $200,000 or more, with great seating capacity. Such a building would soon pay for itself, by inducing large gatherings to meet which would not otherwise come here. Minneapolis also has one of the largest and finest convention halls in the world, with a capacity of upward of ten thousand.

It is about time for Los Angeles to wake up and build a hall comparing favorably with anything of the kind in the country.

A Missouri cyclone is far more deadly than an army of Filipinos with guns in their hands.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK.

HON. BELLAMY STORER.

The final events closing the war with Spain are over, but it will take years to reestablish a friendly feeling on the part of the Spanish for our people. It is, therefore, a very trying position for which Hon. Bellamy Storer, of Cincinnati, O., has been selected. His friends, however, say that he is abundantly fitted to discharge the duties of Minister to Spain.

Mr. Storer is the present United States Minister to Belgium, and so far as he has been called upon to act on important questions in that post he has proven himself an able diplomat. At his home he is known well and favorably as a lawyer of probity and capacity. A constituency there sent him to Congress a few years ago, and he made a reputation as a statesman. As a diplomat, Mr. Storer is well qualified for the delicate and important duties that will be incidental to his unique position at Madrid. In other respects, too, he is equal to the place. His private fortune is ample to uphold the social status of a first-class Minister. He is a warm personal friend of President McKinley, and this, it is believed, should have much weight with the Spanish government. It is evident that his work will be effective, since Spain has agreed to the appointment, and it is hoped that she will have no cause whatever to regret her acquiescence.

Mr. Storer is a graduate of Harvard, class of '67, and read law with Stanley Matthews. Bellamy Storer, Sr., his father, was a well-known and successful lawyer, and as early as 1850 was a member of Congress.

TELEPHONES FOR FARMERS.

An innovation is being introduced in some rural sections of the East which might well be tried in Southern California. The main drawback to farm life, with many persons, is its loneliness. This obstacle is, however, to a great extent, removed by the introduction of the telephone. In some parts of Ohio, farmers have clubbed together and organized a small stock company to put in telephones, which have given general satisfaction. It is said that the cost of a mile of this system was only a little more than $50, the stockholders doing a large part of the labor. There is no section of the United States where country telephones could be more successfully introduced than in Southern California, where the farms are mostly of small size and close together, so that a number of subscribers could be obtained on every section of land, this making the cost to each subscriber much less than it is where the farms are farther apart.

With telephones connecting the farms, and good roads between them, the country resident in Southern California would enjoy most of the advantages of city life without its drawbacks.

The Pasadena statesman, Senator Simpson, has been rewarded for voting for the notorious Daniel M. Burns by the appointment of his son to a court clerkship, which has a salary attached to it of $150 per month. The overlooking of a local and loyal Republican who are deserving of recognition, for a mere fledgling who has never cast more than one vote in his life, is but an example of the way some people "do politics."

Likewise, when one comes to consider why young Simpson was singled out for this important and remunerative office, it cannot be considered as other than a direct affront to every decent Republican in the State. This appointment also shows clearly that the Dan Burns machine is in first-class working order, and that its boss is going to run the old thing until there is nothing more left of it than there was of the famous "one-hoss shay." That time, by the way, is not likely to be very far distant.

One of the most deplorable facts connected with the recent horribly brutal lynching in Georgia is that the Governor, and also the Atlanta Constitution, covertly apologized for the acts of the mob.

Now that the Democratic dinners are over, and the dishes cleared away, it may not be amiss to remark that the Barker-Donnelly campaign goes serenely on, without a sign of dissenation in the party.

Gen. Luna's envoys to Gen. Otis's headquarters evinced their familiarity with Spanish methods and Spanish phraseology by insisting on having peace "with honor."

Mrs. George of Canton, O., says she will go on the platform and lecture on woman's rights. This statement could not, we are sure, have been made before the verdict in her case was rendered. Otherwise, we cannot conceive that the jury would have acquitted her.

The present war has developed two distinct types of naval officers. One is a terror to an enemy and a source of confidence to his countrymen. The other is also a terror to an enemy, but is a source of apprehension at home. The one type is seen in Admiral Dewey; the other in Capt. Coghlan.

Mrs. George says she is going to take the stump for woman suffrage. That Ohio court has much to answer for, in turning this "lady in the case" loose to devastate the land with woman's rights' speeches.

The Filipinos are evidently fighting for time in which to get their breath, but it will be just like MacArthur and Lawton to keep them breathlessly on the run.

One of the most gratifying bits of news that have come from the seat of war is the announcement that the missing men of the gunboat Yorktown have not been slain.

Both Admiral Kautz and Capt. Coghlan could learn valuable lessons in the use of silence from Admiral Dewey.

One Funston is worth a whole mile of trenches filled with Filipinos. Glorious Fred Funston, you are a beauty!

Aguinaldo is a greater "also ran" than even Prince George of Greece, for he runs oftener and farther at a time.

Put away the golden whistle on which Ag. was wont to toot. He will never need it longer. As his soldiers cannot shoot, he will never need it.

Collier Kanawha Lost Near Bermuda—Crew Saved.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
 SAN JUAN DE PORTO RICO, April 29.—(By West Indian Cable.) The steamship Kanawha of New York, Capt. Evans, which left Newport News on April 2, with coal for Bermuda, sprung a leak, broke her rudder and foundered 150 miles from Bermuda on April 6. Her officers and crew, fourteen in all, took to the lifeboats, leaving all their effects on the steamer. They were rescued by the American brig Dart, Capt. Darling, bound from Philadelphia for San Juan with coal. Before being picked up, the men from the Kanawha suffered greatly from hunger and thirst.

The Atlanta arrived here with the shipwrecked sailors at 6 o'clock last evening. The crew of the Kanawha are now fully recovered from their hardships and in enthusiastic over Capt. Darling's generous conduct. They are in charge of United States Consul Hanna, who will care for them until they can be sent to New York.

THE LOST VESSEL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
 NEW YORK, April 29.—The steamer Kanawha was built at Bath, Me., in 1881, was 171 feet long, 29 feet beam, 16 feet deep, and of 431 tons burden. She was owned by John A. Donnell, a dispatch from London yesterday said that grave fears were entertained for the safety of the Kanawha.

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND.

Pendant pearl of California,
 Gleaming on the placid bosom
 Of the limitless Pacific,
 With thy wealth of bill and cañon,
 Rough and crazy stretch of shore-line,
 Where the ocean, ceaseless dashing,
 Caverns deep and dark has burrowed;
 And the waters rushing inward,
 Rushing inward, rushing outward,
 Bite forever and forever,
 Slowly eating 'way the cliff-side,
 Till in distant future ages
 In the ocean's maw cavernous
 Thou wilt sink and slowly vanish,
 Add for aeons lie quiescent
 In the bed of Mother Ocean;
 Then volcanic fires erupting,
 Once again may send thee skyward,
 Forming here another island.
 Thus the cycle of the human;
 We are naught but specks of islets
 On the atlas of the rock, and the Ignoring of such a legislator,
 And we'll vanish on the morrow,
 As the hosts before have vanished,
 Making room for those that follow;
 But the fire of Soul will lift us
 To a higher, better sphere.

JOS. E. RICH.

A Critic Scored.

[National City Record:] Mr. Chapman, in the Los Angeles Herald, the leading Democratic paper in Southern California, takes THE TIMES of the same city to task, and calls it an anarchist, because it has the true American manhood to stand on its constitutional rights, refusing to consider as law the spurious enactment of a Legislature with an average intelligence far below that of a Filipino junta. Mr. Chapman mistakes the evident contempt of THE TIMES for an act of the Legislature as contempt of law, but as the courts in this country are the only authorities to determine what is and what is not law, it is evident that until they have passed upon it, no legislative enactment can properly be considered as law, and the ignoring of such enactment is not contempt of law. The enforcement of law rests upon public officials, and it is also the privilege of private citizens, in this country, to insist upon it. There is nothing in the world to prevent Mr. Chapman, if he honestly believes that THE TIMES is violating the law, to bring that paper into court and have it punished for its alleged contempt. That would be more to the purpose than calling THE TIMES names, but perhaps Mr. Chapman is speaking by the card, and can't help himself, in which case we take back the foregoing.

An Opinion of Morehouse.

R. C. P. Smith, editor of the Ontario Record, in concluding an editorial on the signature law, expresses his opinion of the author of the law in the following forcible language, and signs his name thereto:
 "In passing, however, the writer cannot find words adequate to express his contempt for the rank substitute for a man and a legislator, Morehouse, who fathered the bill in the recent Legislature. He is a disgrace to his district, to his State and to American manhood, and he has and richly deserves the utter contempt of every freedom-loving citizen. He was a horrible misfit in a mild Legislature, and the people of his district will doubtless consign him to the oblivion from which he emerged for a brief season to go to Sacramento and make a first-class fool of himself. It is now reported that he is already assumed of his nasty piece of legislation, and is endeavoring to shirk the responsibility for it. All of which would seem to indicate that Morehouse is a coward as well as an idiot. Somebody should take Mr. M. in out of the dump. It is dangerous for such people to be at large."

San Diego	4.83	1.48
Yuma	1.34	1.63

San Francisco data: Maximum temperature, 64 deg.; minimum, 50 deg.; mean, 57 deg.

The weather is generally fair over the southern half of the Coast, but raining from Port Canby northward. A storm of moderate energy sweeps Western Texas and Oregon, and may cause rain along the coast of Northern California Sunday. The pressure continues to fall from Portland northward. The temperature has risen slowly over California, except in the San Joaquin Valley, where there has been a marked rise. Frost was reported at Fresno this morning, but the maximum temperatures throughout the valley are near 70 deg. Snow is falling in the mountains of Arizona, and Flagstaff reports a temperature of 23 deg. High winds from the southwest are reported at Port Canby and Neah Bay.

Forecast made at San Francisco for thirty hours, ending 11 p.m., April 30:

Northern California: Fair Sunday, except showers along the northern coast; westerly winds in the south; southerly winds in the north.

Arizona: Cloudy, warmer Sunday.

San Francisco and vicinity: Fair Sunday; northwest winds, changing to southerly.

BROOKS WAS ABSENT.

SENT HIS JUNIOR PARTNER TO REPRESENT APPELMAN.

Prisoner Wanted a Speedy Trial, but the Junior Partner Gave Him the Glassy Eye—Worried About the Money Turned Over.

J. Marion Brooks did not appear in Justice Austin's court yesterday morning to look after the interests of his client, Henri Appelman, against whom the charge of grand larceny, for stealing the clothes belonging to his former mistress, was reduced to petty larceny. Appelman's case was called for 10 o'clock. The prisoner was taken into court promptly on time by Bailiff Appel, and Justice Austin looked over the firm of his glasses in quest of the prisoner's attorney. Deputy District Attorney Chambers was ready, the court was ready and the prisoner was ready, but the prisoner's attorney of record was conspicuous by his absence. The prisoner with vision of his vanishing $550, and distressing forebodings of what the future might hold in store for him, cast yearning and apprehensive glances in the direction of the door leading to the courtroom, but the fitting shadow of J. Marion fell not across the threshold, and, finally, with the patience of the court seemed almost exhausted, and the prisoner's symptoms evinced a near approach to St. Vitus dance, a young man who had been sitting quietly within the railing arose and modestly informed the court that he would represent the prisoner.

The young man gave his name as Norman O. Byers, and his occupation as junior partner in the law firm of Brooks & Byers. He said that the senior member of the firm was detained at the office by important business, and could not appear. He did not say whether Brooks was busy defending others for possessing himself of the balance of $445, which the prisoner is alleged to have on deposit in the First National Bank, or whether he was preparing an affidavit to show that the prisoner was in Milpitas when the crime of which he stands charged was committed, but a theory was advanced by the knowing ones to the effect that, after obtaining possession of Appelman's $550, Brooks ascertained that the alleged balance of $445 in the bank was all a myth, and that the knowledge made him so fired that the seclusion of his private office became absolutely imperative.

At all events the junior partner stated that the firm of Brooks & Byers was not ready to proceed with the trial of the case. This caused the prisoner to experience another cognitive chill. The transfer of his $550 into the capacious pockets of Brooks was hard enough to bear, but on Friday morning Brooks had assured him that he would be a free man very soon; that he would clear him that very morning. Subsequently the charge of grand larceny against the prisoner was dismissed and a charge of petty larceny substituted, his pulse beats were all a myth, and in his mind's eye he saw himself leaving the hated dungeon where he has spent the past week. Surely now the case would be brought to trial, and he would be acquitted. Had not his attorney, J. Marion Brooks, the only real and genuine discoverer of Congressman Barlow, assured him that he would clear him, and was not J. Marion, in addition to being his attorney, also attorney for Marie Verhoven, his former mistress, who was prosecuting him for stealing her clothes? What was to prevent Brooks from squaring the case with Marie, even though the woman did not appear on Friday afternoon when he beseeched her to get him out of his trouble? He had great faith in Brooks's hypnotic power. He had been up against it himself, and it cost him $550. And if Brooks could so deftly coax $550 out of his pocket, what could he not do with a diminutive Belgian woman even though she wore a trifle resentful at having her clothes stolen for the benefit of another woman?

And so Henri's hopes of a speedy trial and acquittal were shattered, and he became correspondingly depressed. He looked appealingly at the junior partner, but that frigid person gave him the glassy eye, and informed the court that the defense would want a jury trial, and would not be ready for at least a week. Justice Austin looked over his calendar and set the case for Thursday, May 11, at 9:30 o'clock a.m. Appelman's bail was fixed at $500 cash or $100 bond. Attorney Byers made a motion for reduction of the bail, but Justice Austin could see no good reason for changing the figures and denied the request. Not being able to give bail, the prisoner was led back to his cell. He gave vent to his disappointment in a few fresh tears, and is now wondering what his attorney will do with him next.

OIL FIELDS FIRE. Serious Conflagration Prevented by a Chemical Company.

There have been many narrow escapes from disastrous conflagrations in the oil fields, but at none of them have the same conditions confronted the fire department as were presented at a fire which occurred yesterday afternoon near the corner of First street and Belmont avenue. At 12:55 o'clock the derrick over the well of the Light Oil Company became ignited in some unknown manner, supposedly from the friction of a pumping cable against the wooden sides of the derrick. By the time the fire was discovered the flames had almost burned away the supports of the derrick.

An alarm was at once sounded from box 59, at Court and Patton streets and this alarm was quickly followed by others from boxes 56, Belmont and First streets, and 53, Belmont and Temple. Chemical engine No. 2 arrived at the fire first, and Capt. Rhoder at once ordered the sounding of a second alarm. The fire was at the top of a hill, below which were fifteen tanks of oil and twenty or more residences. Adjoining the burning derrick was a 200-barrel tank half full of oil, and the fire soon burned a hole in this, letting the oil flow out down the hill. The back yards of several residences were soon flooded with burning oil, and for a time it looked as though several houses could be only entered through this gate.

The chemical company held the fire in check until the arrival of other companies, and the flames were extinguished, the loss being only the burned derrick and the oil that had flowed from the tank, the whole not exceeding $500.

THE DATE PALM.

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCHES BY THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

History and Present Status in the United States—Bulletin of the Agricultural Department.

(BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)
WASHINGTON, April 19.—The Department of Agriculture has been making a scientific investigation of the date palm in the United States, and has published some observations upon that subject. It says:

The date palm is a native of the arid regions of northern Africa and southwestern Asia. The history and present status of the date palm in the United States has been made a subject of study by the Arizona station. The following statements are taken from a bulletin published by the station. The palm followed the progress of Catholic missions from St. Augustine to Mexico, New Mexico, Arizona and California, where it is now grown in the open ground as an ornamental as far north as San Francisco. The tree will, however, produce fruit only over a much more limited area. It is not yet grown on a commercial scale anywhere within the United States, although occasional seedlings are found in the desert regions of southern New Mexico, Arizona and southeastern California, which produce fruit of excellent quality.

The greatest impulse was given to date growing in this country by the importation by the division of pomology of this department of rooted suckers supposed to have been taken from female trees known to produce fruit of excellent quality. These were distributed and planted in Los Angeles, St. M. Phoenix and Yuma, Ariz., Indio, Pomona, Tulare and National City, Cal. Of the trees thus planted it appears that thirty-nine are now living, which fifteen have blossomed, seven of them being pistillate or fruit-bearing plants. It may be two or three years before their true fruit qualities can be ascertained.

The regions in which the date palm thrives are characterized by a deficiency of rain and wide variation of temperature. The summer heat is intense, reaching 115 deg. or more, though in winter the thermometer may fall as low as 16 deg. below freezing. These climatic conditions are practically identical with those that obtain in the more southern portions of the great Colorado Desert. So great is the similarity in fact that, so far as climate is concerned, we may reasonably expect the date palm to grow satisfactorily in the arid regions of our Southwest. Although the date palm requires exceptionally intense heat in summer, it will withstand in winter the temperature of the arid regions of our Southwest. Although the date palm requires exceptionally intense heat in summer, it will withstand in winter the temperature of the arid regions of our Southwest.

Probably the soil best adapted to the date palm is one containing a small percentage of clay, fairly free from humus, and charged with alkali. Irrigation and heat are the all-important conditions. Water is indispensable. The roots should be made at all times. The date must have its head in the fire and its roots in the water. It is an old Arabian proverb that water should be applied frequently throughout the year, the most in the spring before blossoming and in the fall prior to ripening of the fruit. Care should be taken not to irrigate too much at the time of blossoming and just after, as this is liable to interfere with successful fruit setting. The water may advantageously be quite warm, from 75 to 85 deg. F., and contain considerable alkali. In midsummer irrigation should be in the late afternoon or evening, and should be quite to the surface. During the rainy season these are filled with water and sometimes do not become entirely dry before the next rainy season. The date palm thrives in such spots when once established, although its trunk may be partially submerged for some time. Where winter irrigation is practiced, however, water should not be allowed to rise above the surface of the soil for any considerable length of time, and in fact to be allowed to dry away, as baking of the soil under these conditions may result in serious injury to the tree. From a study of the soil and climatic conditions in Northern Africa, where the date palm flourishes, it seems probable that dates may be grown in the region adjacent to the Salton basin west of Yuma.

The date may be propagated from seeds or suckers. The former method is not much used, except in originating new varieties, because, like many other fruits, the date is a true seedling. The date is generally later and poorer, and the excessive number of suckers that spring up cannot be distinguished and destroyed early, when blossoms, hence propagation by suckers is resorted to, although the date is difficult to transplant with uniform success. Frequently as many as 50 per cent. of the transplanted dates die after they have received the best of care, and if neglected hardly any will survive. The Arizona station gives directions for transplanting as follows: (Suckers may be removed at any time during the spring or early summer, or even in the winter if proper care be given them after removal. If they are to be planted in the open ground, it is advisable to remove them during the spring or early summer, April probably being the best month. In winter, when the plants are at a standstill, the suckers may be removed with comparatively little loss. If the bulbs be not less than four inches in diameter and have a few roots. It is necessary, when suckers are removed at this season, to take them in rather small pots, so that the earth, which should be given a daily soaking, may have a chance to get warm quickly. The pots should be kept in a greenhouse, or better yet, imbedded in a bed of manure, covered with the customary frame and glass. In all cases the leaves should be cut back to 6 to 12 inches in length.

If proper attention can be given it is best to plant the suckers where they are to remain, as a second chance for loss occurs when they are planted in a nursery and later moved to the position that they are finally to occupy.

A two-inch chisel well sharpened, and an appropriate mallet are the important tools to use in removing suckers. The leaf stalks should be cut away, exposing the bulb. The sucker care being taken not to injure the bulb in removing. One should cut in rather deeply at either side, not being afraid of injuring the old plant, cutting down a V-shaped portion extending from the base of the bulb down for a foot or more and being careful to secure in uninjured condition all the attached roots. If the position of the sucker be not too high above the ground, the V-shaped portion should be continued downward into the soil, that all established roots be obtained. The Pomona substitution in California has the best success in removing suckers by banking earth about the stem of the plant so as to cover the bulbs a number of weeks prior to removing them. A good system of roots is established by this method of procedure.

The male and female flowers of the palm are borne on separate plants. In the male plant the flowers are crowded closely together on a large branched panicle, and have an odor like musty flour. If the panicle is shaken when the flowers are well opened quantities of pollen will escape, filling the air as it with dust. The flowers in the female panicle are much further apart; the segments are smaller and less spreading. The center of the flower is well filled by three pistils two of which soon become abortive. It is evident, then, that male and female trees should be planted near each other. It is quite common to set one male plant in the center of an irregular circle of six or eight females. If the trees are planted in a row along a roadside the male tree should be planted to the windward. The wind may be depended upon as a rule to effect pollination if the staminate is not more than a few feet from the pistillate. At greater distance pollination may be effected, though with doubtful certainty of completeness, by both wind and insect. The pollen is peculiar in that the pollen retains its fertility for a long time. It may be transported to great distances and artificially applied to the female blossom with success. Pollen should not be dusted on the flower too profusely as overpollination is said to weaken the developing dates and cause them to drop from the tree. When artificial pollination is necessary the male blossom is cut from the tree as soon as the cracking of the spathe shows that it is about to open. The panicle may then be cut into pieces, and a piece tied near the opening of each female panicle.

The date palm, whether male or female, varies greatly in size, color, sweetness, delicacy of flavor, and length of time required to mature. The dates of commerce are usually small, and are of the variety called "pigeon" or "pigeonette." They are of a firm texture, and are hence preferable for shipping purposes. The average yield of a tree is eight bunches, each weighing about 15 pounds, though they may weigh as much as 40 pounds. In Arizona seedling trees seven years of age have produced upward of 300 pounds in a single season. Young trees blossoming the first or second time should not be allowed to bear more than four or five bunches, enclosing the bunches on the tree afford the best protection. The expense should not exceed 10 cents per tree. Grasshoppers do the most damage by feeding on the foliage. The most serious pest that the date has in this country is a scale insect that was imported on palms several years ago. The insect is small, but conspicuous against the dark green leaves, both sides of which are infested. The Arizona station has not yet discovered any means of eradicating the pest. Applications of whale oil soap washes and fumigation with hydrocyanic-acid gas have been only partially successful.

GOLF TOURNAMENT.

Good Scores Made by Ladies in the Handicap and Open Plays.

The Los Angeles Country Club opened a three days' golf tournament yesterday morning, when the ladies' handicap, eighteen holes each, was started. During yesterday Mrs. John D. Foster made the best score, using water ten entries, winning the medal and cup, while Mrs. Braly won the handicap and prize. Mrs. Braly has a peculiar swing in the drives which lands the ball at the limit, and scores her the topmost points. It is said that the moment a man or woman takes hold of a club for a drive that he or she becomes a devotee of the game of golf. The scores made yesterday are as follows:

The score made by Mrs. Foster for the cup, 111, is phenomenal, and the handicap run by Mrs. Braly is one of the best ever made on the grounds. Today the men's handicap opens and will continue throughout Dewey day.

For Santa Ana River Water.

E. H. Spoor of Redlands, as receiver of the New Bear Valley Irrigating Company and the Bear Valley Irrigating Company, has filed a complaint in equity in the United States Circuit Court against Peter Kranz, Hiram Clark and Matthew Lewis. It is alleged in the bill that the defendants have been unlawfully using water from the Santa Ana River, between its source and the east end of the San Bernardino Valley. The complainant claims the exclusive right to the water from this section, and asks the court to issue an injunction against the defendants, prohibiting them from using the water, and also sue for $5000.

The dust and dirt and plaster is the enemy we're fighting now. But we'll triumph if might and heroism and daring count for anything. The principal danger and damage so far is in the House Furnishing Section. As the work progresses, Clothing, Shoes, Millinery, Ribbons, Laces, Silks, and Cloaks are sure to suffer—But they must be saved from destruction and

This Deep Cutting of Prices will show you how desperate we are to save them.—If you'll help us we'll pay you.

A HORSE-RACING PRINCE.

DR. PARKER TAKEN TO TASK FOR FUMING AGAINST WALES.

Tercentenary of Cromwell's Birth Celebrated in England—Events of the Week in the Tight Little Isle—The Queen's Doings.

LA F. EARLY MORNING REPORT.

LONDON, April 29.—[Special Cable Letter. Copyright, 1899.] London is still practically deserted by society people, most of whom are at Newmarket, where there is a very gay and fashionable gathering. Here the Prince of Wales has been enjoying himself, while Joseph Parker, from the pulpit of the City Temple, has been fuming against him as a horse-racing Prince. The newspapers of this city generally have taken Dr. Parker to task for his violent language in his sermon on Tuesday last, on the occasion of his address on Oliver Cromwell.

The most interesting event of the week has been the tercentenary of the birth of Oliver Cromwell, Lord Protector of England. Celebrations have taken place all over England, and places connected with incidents in the life of Cromwell. The chief ceremony was held at his birthplace, in Huntingdon, on Thursday, where sermons were preached and a great demonstration took place at Market Hall. Many thousands of people visited Cromwell's home at Hinchbrook, and meetings were also held on the battlefield of Naseby. At this latter place visitors of the Church of England protested against the seeming attempt of the non-conformists to monopolize the Cromwell celebrations.

IMPERIAL DEMONSTRATION.

There was an imperialistic demonstration on a small scale on Thursday, when a detachment of the New South Wales Lancers arrived at the Albert docks and marched through London to Waterloo station, from which point they were to train to Aldershot for six months' training with the home cavalry. The band of the Coldstream Guards led the procession, as it passed through the streets, the Lord Mayor, Sir John Moore, and other officials, in full robes of office, stood upon the balcony of the Mansion House to see the men pass. The Lord Mayor, Sir John Moore, graciously waved his cocked hat and shouted applause. Large crowds filled the streets along the route over which the Lancers marched, and greeted them with great enthusiasm.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKETERS.

Another body of Australians, whose doings will help to fill the newspapers for the next six months, is the Australian cricket team, which will next week begin a tour of England, during which they will meet all of the country cricket teams. The reason of the national pastime opens next Monday. The newspapers are already devoting much space to discussion of the prospects of the game, and the arrangements which have been made for matches.

THE QUEEN'S DOINGS.

Queen Victoria this week opened a new bridge over the River Mersey near Climez, on invitation of the local French authorities. The Mayor and a section of the municipal Council wished to have the bridge named Victoria, in honor of the Queen. Another section immediately started a counter proposal to name the bridge for Felix Faure, the late President of the French Republic, while a third party proposed the bridge named after a local celebrity. Feeling ran high, and finally, after a farcical squabble, it was decided not to name the bridge at all. The Queen is at present engaged in arranging the delicate matter of the domicile of her grand-daughter, Princess Maude, who is already tired of living in gloomy Copenhagen. Her husband, Prince Charles, therefore, desires to receive an office in the British service, and become a naturalized subject of the Queen's Crown Prince Frederick of Denmark is now at Climez, discussing the subject with the Queen.

An incident has just occurred which reveals the Queen's attitude on the vexed question of the propriety of ladies smoking. One of her daughters, while leaving Windsor, was detained in the waiting-room of the station. When she left the station, the master found in the station a silver cigarette case, on which the name of the Princess was engraved, and the words "From her mother."

CHOATE KEPT BUSY.

The United States Ambassador, Joseph H. Choate, was present at various social functions this week. Mr. Choate has been invited to speak at a banquet of the Royal Academy on Saturday evening, at which the Prince of Wales and the Dukes of York and Connaught will be guests.

A SNUB FOR LORNE.

The Marquis of Lorne, son-in-law of the Queen, has just received a snub in connection with the application for a license for a hostelry at Roseneath, known as Ferry Inn, which has the unique glory of having had a member of the royal family as its architect. Princess Louise of Lorne, having drawn the plans for its reconstruction. The Marquis owns the inn, and recently erected the landings who was his tenant for thirty years. In order to transfer it to his late butler. The licensing court marked its disgust at the Marquis of Lorne's action by refusing to renew the license for Ferry Inn, and granting the former landlady a new license for a new house.

PORTER'S OBSERVATIONS.

Robert P. Porter has returned to London from his mission to Germany. Mr. Porter said to the correspondent of the Associated Press that he was entirely satisfied with the results of his visit. He had found a great growth of better feeling among German commercial circles toward the United States. He had also found Baron von Buelow, Minister for Foreign Affairs, and the Minister for Commerce, and all other imperial functionaries, prepared to go far toward furthering reciprocity treaties, but the agrarians are utterly hostile. While in Rome, Mr. Porter met Sig. Fortia, the Italian Minister of Agriculture, and learned from him that the government intended to take full advantage of its new markets opened up in Cuba and Porto Rico, in the case of goods which their manufacture equally with other countries.

BISHOP WHIPPLE'S VIEWS.

Bishop Whipple has just returned from a visit to Oxford University, and is going to Cambridge next week. In the course of an interview on his impressions during his visit, Bishop Whipple said that he had seen all the leading church men here, and as a result, viewed the ecclesiastical controversy calmly. There was certainly, he said, no necessity of panic. As showing the difference between England and America, the bishop said he could mention the fact that never, during his episcopate of forty years, had he experienced the disobedience of a clergyman in his diocese. Bishop Whipple said he thought it an absolute impossibility that England should ever go back to Rome, and as far as America is concerned there is no such tendency anywhere. Conversations with the heads of the church in England and America have convinced him that there is a widespread desire for unity. Speaking of Americanism in the Roman Catholic Church, Bishop Whipple said:

he believed it was a passing phase without permanent effect. Bishop Whipple eulogized Archbishop Ireland, whose great efforts for good as a neighbor he had watched with great pleasure, and whose liberal kindness toward other churches could not be doubted.

HUMAN SACRIFICES.

Advises from the Niger Coast protectorate record the return of an expedition sent to the interior to put down a rising. The troops bring back a ghastly story of fetish worship and sacrifices among the native tribes. They found whole batches of natives crucified at different places, the victims being mostly women who had been subjected to revolting tortures.

THE LATE WILLIAM MORRIS.

McCain's "Life of William Morris," which is published this week, mentions the two interesting facts that Mr. Morris was sounded on behalf of Mr. Gladstone, as to whether he was willing that the should be nominated poet laureate in succession to Lord Tennyson, and Mr. Morris thought and told friends that the Marquis of Lorne ought to be the poet laureate, the view of Mr. Morris being that the proper function of a poet laureate was a ceremonial writer of official verse, and that the Marquis of Lorne was best fitted for the post by reason of his position and acquisitions.

MASONIC FESTIVAL CLOSED.

Large Attendance at the Pavilion. For the Home Fund.

Last evening marked the close of the Masons' fruit and flower festival, but notwithstanding this fact there were fully 1500 people present, and they appeared to be fully as appreciative of the programme as upon any other night. The flowers had begun to fade and the ladies in attendance upon the different booths showed plainly that they were tired and glad that the affair was over. Probably the most interesting event was the vocal gaithe. Sixteen young people gave a good portrayal of an old-fashioned minuet to a vocal accompaniment, and the gracefulness and ease with which they executed the various steps and figures showed that they had been practicing for some time.

The prizes of sofa pillows, bicycles, white rabbits, handkerchiefs, rocking chairs, in addition to many other decorative household articles which have been awarded during the evening, and these many different prizes are now crowded with dancers until closing time. The members of the association that has had the making of the festival every reason to congratulate themselves upon the success of the undertaking, as the amount taken in over and above these many different prizes, $2000, which goes into the fund for a Masons' and orphan's home here.

Plurality Election of Senators.

[Minneapolis Times.] There is considerable discussion in the eastern papers just now of Senator Hoar's proposition for the election of Senators hereafter by a plurality vote instead of a majority. It is urged that the plural rule in national, State and Congressional elections; that only three presidents in the last sixty years received a majority of the popular vote; and that comparatively few of the Congressmen elected have a majority of the votes of their districts.

Deadlocks in the Senatorial elections, beginning last January and some of them still continuing, led to Senator Hoar's suggestion, and to its favorable reception in some quarters. But the deadlock is not the greatest evil incident to our present method of electing Senators. A deadlock, in itself, is no very terrible thing, for the country would be just as well off if some of the States were represented by only one Senator apiece for a session or two, and the average wayfarer man would never know the difference. The chief objection to the legislative election of Senators is that it makes the purchase of a seat in the Senate so easy that the practice has become a grave national scandal. The plurality plan would make it all the easier to buy a toga and would place an added premium on legislative dishonesty and corruption.

Senators are now elected under the act of Congress of 1866, which provides that balloting for Senators shall begin on the second Tuesday after the organization of the Legislature and shall continue daily until some candidate receives a majority of all the votes cast. To change the requirement to a plurality would necessitate merely an amendment to this act. The present method would seem to indicate that some pressure will be brought to bear upon the next Congress to secure the suggested amendment.

As already stated, the plurality method would be more expeditious than the majority plan, but it would be just as great a stenche in the nostrils of all who desire the purification of our politics and the respectable position it once boasted. The people have a right to demand that it shall be the duty of their legislators to perform the work for which they are elected; that Senatorial campaigns shall be divorced from legislative business, and that the voters shall be free to vote for the candidate of their choice, and not for the candidate of the party which is in power.

Paymaster Collier says: "I Have Taken Pe-ru-na."

WM. A. COLLIER, PAYMASTER OF THE U. S. NAVY.

One of the most responsible positions in the practical management of the United States Navy is the Paymaster's Office. Only men of great executive and clerical ability can fill such a position. Such a man is the Hon. William A. Collier, Assistant Paymaster of the United States Navy. Even men of his splendid physique and magnificent bodily vigor have sometimes to make use of reliable remedies for some trifling ailment. Such men generally know which the reliable remedies are, as is evidenced by a recent letter of his to Dr. Hartman.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 25, 1899. Pe-ru-na Drug Mfg Co., Columbus, O.: Gentlemen—I have taken Pe-ru-na and take pleasure in recommending it to those needing a first-class tonic, being assured that it will do all that is claimed for it. Yours truly, Wm. A. Collier. Sergeant Buck Taylor, one of the famous Rough Riders, is a personal friend of Governor Roosevelt of New York. He accompanied Governor Roosevelt on his great stumping tour through upper New York State. He was promoted through gallantry in the field during the late war. The Sergeant has the following to say of Pe-ru-na: "I think there is no better medicine on earth than Pe-ru-na"

HER FREE OFFER.

TO SISTERS IN DISTRESS.

Mrs. Hudnut's Grand Work Among Women Whose Lives Have Been Overshadowed With Suffering.

Thousands of women testify that their lives seemed hopeless and were completely overshadowed by ill health until they wrote Mrs. Hudnut and were restored to health by her simple remedies.

How She Has Helped Others.

Mary L. Nichols, Dorraene, Mich. writes thus: "One year ago I could not sit up in bed; have used a box of boxes of Pe-ru-na and am now nearly cured." Mrs. Philip Renner, Quaker City, O., writes: "I have for fifteen years, thanks to your grand remedy." Mrs. M. S. Shultz, Delaware, Va., writes: "I suffered for years with leucorrhoea and inflammation of the womb; could hardly walk when I used your remedy; am now doing all my own house work." Mrs. Annie Turner, Farmington, Ky., writes: "Your remedy has cured me after suffering untold misery for years with female weakness and womb troubles." J. W. Sistrunk, Macomb, Mich., writes: "My wife was sick for five years. I spent $1,000 for doctors' bills and other medicines, and obtained no benefit. A few boxes of your remedy has cured her sound and well. It is worth its weight in gold." Mrs. A. E. Fairbanks, Hartman, Pa., writes: "I suffered with womb troubles for six years, and after using two boxes of your remedy I feel well and strong again."

Her Free Offer.

Mrs. Hudnut promises to send a free trial treatment of her remedy in sealed plain package to any lady who will write her, saying she needs it for herself or for a friend. There is no charge whatever.

The remedy relieves AT ONCE pain caused by all female troubles, strengthens the body, builds up the constitution and brightens the complexion. The treatment is very simple; it is applied directly to the affected parts, corrects the trouble there, stops all sympathetic ailments and the sufferer becomes a well woman. Womb troubles, bearing-down pains, painful periods and the many complaints peculiar to women are all quickly cured. Ladies need have no hesitancy in writing for Mrs. Hudnut gives her personal attention to all correspondence, and every letter is held sacredly confidential. GETTING THE MONEY.

SLOT-MACHINE PEOPLE HAVE A BONANZA HERE.

Sure-thing Gamblers Anxious to Have Them Licensed and are Pressing That Way.

CIGAR STANDS FALLING IN.

WILL NOT ALLOW THE SALOONS TO MONOPOLIZE THEM.

Some Samples of the Enormous Profits in Machines—What the Licensing Would Mean Explained.

There'll be a hot time in the old town when the nickel-in-the-slot machine license ordinance goes into effect, if it does, and every tin-horn sure-thing gambler is laying his plans to enter into the profit of these money-making institutions. At present there are from 200 to 300 machines in the city which are paying in cash, and during the past two months the number has been increasing rapidly. Most of them are in the saloons, but now they are to be carried into the cigar stands, and one order for twenty-five machines for this purpose has been placed, and they are expected to arrive Tuesday. Many other orders for machines are ready to be filed as soon as the Mayor signs the ordinance.

Legislation of this form of gambling, should His Honor do so. He has until Thursday to approve or veto it. At present the money machines have no pretense of legal standing beyond that which is obtained through the connivance of officials to set at defiance the laws of the State which forbid their existence.

There are two distinct classes of the nickel-in-the-slot machine, those which are made to pay in merchandise and those which pay in cash. The former class in the long run practically the same amount as is put in them in cash. The cash machines, however, are built to pay out from 30 to 40 per cent. of the cash put in them, leaving from 60 to 80 per cent. for those who own or manage the machines, and it is almost incredible the money being derived from these machines being to their owners.

Most of the cash machines are owned by a few men, who place them in the saloons and divide the profits with the saloon-keepers. In some cases the latter have bought their own machines. The reason why others have not done so is that they are bound to be denied them soon, and their investment prove a losing one. The saloon-keepers are consequently anxious to have the license ordinance enforced, that they can be at liberty to have their own machines and feel that they are secure from interference.

Of course it is not easy to learn exactly how much money the owners and saloon-keepers are taking from the machines, but it is certain that the profits are immense.

In one case, during a period of two months, the profits of one machine in a prominent saloon amounted to $44 per day, the money being divided between the owner and the saloon-keeper, who then bought the machine.

In another case, the profits of two machines in one day ran to $114, the owner and saloon-keeper each taking out $57 after which the latter bought the machines.

One man in this city has thirty machines, and his regular monthly profits run to over $1200, though his investment is but $300 or $500.

In another case, a machine brought only $55 each to the saloon-keeper and the owner for a month, and it was removed, as the profits were not satisfactory.

There is no record of the number of machines in the city, but one of the best informed men in the city on the subject says that there are between 200 and 300, and if the number is 250, and the average earning is but $100 each per month, the profits from the machines in the city would run to $250,000 per year. One man borrowed $200 to buy machines, and in two months he had paid the debt and accumulated $2000 besides. This is an example of what the profits are.

It is manifest that men who are conducting a profitable business can bring a strong pressure to bear on the city officials to gain their points, and when some days ago, thirty saloon-keepers held a conference and decided to ask the Council to license these gambling machines, they were anxious to have the cloak of the law thrown over their enterprise, that they might put an end to the division of the profits with the owners of the machines. The pressure brought to bear was evidently sufficient, for the ordinance was passed, and now awaits the action of the Mayor.

But, as intimated above, the saloon-keepers are liable to be beaten at their own game, for the cigar dealers, who are generally averse to the cash machines, are many of them determined to put them in if the law goes into effect. This will place gambling houses everywhere on the business streets, and every man who wishes can turn gambler without inconvenience in hunting for a resort.

The licensing of this form of gambling in the city would be an innovation, and it would be something of a novelty to have it come from a "reform administration." The present administration was not committed to "reform," and yet it was understood that the entrance of a cash machine would forfeit its license, and there was not a machine of that character in any of the saloons for some time. Then the administration closed its eyes and permitted the favor of the machines, and when the new officials were elected, they permitted the gambling devices to continue to run without restraint, and are now proposing to license them, for the ostensible purpose of increasing the revenues of the city.

Whatever the Council does, however, there is no possibility of its giving this gambling device a legal standing, for the reason that it is clearly in defiance of the State law.

This fact is recognized in other cities of the State. In San Francisco, for instance, which is often referred to as an example of the wide-open city, the saloons, the people preferring to do the gambling in ways which give them a return for their investment.

Section 319 of the Penal Code says: "A lottery is any scheme for the disposal or distribution of property by chance among persons who have paid or promised to pay any valuable consideration for the chance of obtaining any share or for any interest in such property, upon any agreement, understanding or expectation that it is to be distributed or disposed of by lot or chance whether called a lottery, raffle or gift enterprise or by whatever name the same may be known."

Section 320 declares the games in these words: "Every person who contrives, prepares, sets up, proposes or draws any lottery is guilty of a misdemeanor."

It is claimed by many people, and among them not a few lawyers, that the above law applies to the machines, and that the District Attorney's office has been frequently asked during previous administrations to take steps under the above to banish the gambling machines, but that the deputies have defended the owners by refusing to issue warrants for their arrest. At the License-tax Collector's office yesterday it was learned that about 100 machines in the city are licensed to operate and pay in merchandise, but that no license is granted for machines that pay in cash, the county license ordinance making the distinction.

The object which it is proposed to gain by this new ordinance is not difficult to find. It originated, as has been said, at a conference of saloon-keepers, with a member of the City Council present, and it is on the programme that in return for the granting to the saloons of this favor, they will give their undivided support to the certain members of the Council in the next election.

CITY ATTORNEY'S OPINION.

In answer to a question by the Mayor regarding machines in which His Honor asked, "Are not the nickel-in-the-slot machines which pay winnings in money an illegal device, and, if so, has the city any legal right to license them?" City Attorney Haas has replied, giving his opinion, as follows:

"In answer to question as to whether or not nickel-in-the-slot machines which pay winnings in money are illegal devices, and, if so, whether or not the city has any legal right to license them, I will state that they are not made illegal devices by law. Section 330 of the Penal Code of this State provides as follows: 'Every person who deals, plays, or carries on, opens, or causes to be open, or who conducts, either as owner or employee, whether for hire or not, any game of faro, monte, roulette, lansquenet, rouge et noir, rondo, fan-tan, studhorse poker, seven and a half, twenty-one, hokey-pokey, or any banking or percentage game played with cards, dice, or other game for money, checks, credit or other representative of value, and every person who plays or bets at or against any of said prohibited games, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punishable by a fine of not less than $100, nor more than $500, or by imprisonment in the County Jail not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.'

"Under the definitions of what constitutes a banking or percentage game, as given by the Supreme Court of our State, nickel-in-the-slot machines are not embraced within the above category, and are therefore not prohibited. Nor are they prohibited by statute, the municipality is free to impose a license upon the business of conducting or operating the same."

AT THE POLICE STATION.

Alleged Larcenist Arraigned—People Looking for Relatives.

Frank Johnson, a young fellow who is charged with picking the pocket of Fernando Olivas at San Pedro on Wednesday last, and who was captured on Friday by Policemen Gorman and McGraw after a hard chase, was arraigned before Justice Austin yesterday on a charge of grand larceny. He expressed a desire for an early hearing, and his preliminary examination was set for next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

James Holden, a boy, was arraigned on a charge of battery, and will have his trial on May 4 at 4 o'clock p.m. Young Holden is charged with throwing a rock at a little girl named Blanch Culp, knocking her down and painfully injuring her.

J. W. Horne was arraigned on a misdemeanor charge, and will have his trial on May 13 at 9:30 o'clock a.m. Horne is charged with conducting the business of auctioneer without a license.

Ollie Nolan, a colored woman, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 or serve ten days in the City Jail for raising a disturbance in an Alameda-street restaurant.

Chief of Police Glass received a letter yesterday from Mrs. Anna Babcock of Amery, Polk county, Wis., asking for information of her son William O'Neill.

Chief Glass also received a letter from J. F. Lord of Marion, Crittenden county, Ky., asking for information of Miss Mattie Croster.

A letter received at San Bernardino was forwarded to Chief Glass, the writer of which, F. W. Dixon, of Fort Worth, Tex., is anxious to receive information relative to the whereabouts of his brother, J. M. Dixon, Jr., important information awaits the latter.

THE CORPORAL OF CO. A.

[BY A SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.]

CORP. JERRY O'NEIL squinted along the barrel of his rifle and chewed the cud of discontent as he blazed away.

"Nary a wan (bang); nary a wan (bang); shure we're shootin' at the gr-r-round and th' those and we're hittin' them but nary as inimy. Duke of Donnegal! There goes me hat wid a swate hole furmishin' the roof and the spailin that did ut wid his foice fernest a trim where me me gon can't fetch 'im. Shure it's hard luck th' day."

The Spaniards were at their old tricks. Concealed in deep trenches on high ground, they were giving the Yankees a warm reception without receiving any interest for their output. Mauder bullets were creating sad havoc among the Americans in their slight concealment, and there was desperation written on the faces of the officers. After hours of weary fighting the men were the enemy back to their well-supplied trenches, and the pursuers were worn out. A quarter of a mile of open lay between the two forces, and a long charge over this exposed territory would prove disastrous indeed to the tired troops.

Jerry O'Neill, Esq., was stationed at the right wing and was engaged in throwing away bullets and bad language from behind a log a size larger than a lead pencil.

"Something must be done," growled the disgusted colonel, as he peeped with his handkerchief and gazed over the territory ahead. "If we only had a machine gun one hundred yards to the north of that clump of trees we could sweep those trenches, but it could only be done with great loss. I'd charge that whole quarter mile if the men were not tired out." The shelter spoken of was cut off by another open easily swept by the enemy's guns.

Corp. Jerry was not the party the colonel addressed, and in fact was not within hearing, but the natural advantage of that clump of trees had been creeping into his mind for some time past, and overpowered by a happy-go-lucky Jerry seized an idea "loik a Choinazer onto a wash-board," as he expressed it. The enemy were pounding away with every gun now, large and small, and he was becoming unbearable. The back trails were filling up with wounded men and bullets were coming in swarms.

Suddenly a deafening roar began along the American lines. The sudden and desperate men had awakened. Cries, cheers, wild extravagant howling, all manner of utterable sounds filled the air, and were heard in surprise in the Spanish trenches.

It was time to make a noise. Jerry had set sail.

Out from behind the lead-pencil log and into the open went a bunch of blue clothing containing an Irishman and brogan tracks began to spread themselves with surprising rapidity toward the north position. The dust along the trail woke up in astonished clouds to do honor to the fleeing figure that appeared, crowned with a shock of red hair protruding through an army cap. What dust that wildly galloping corporal did not waken was stirred up by Spanish bullets. All off in a bunch and the bees buzzed about Jerry's head and hummed a wild tune to which he danced in strict time.

And he sang as he flew: "Shoot! Shoot and be hanged to ye!" letting out a few links. "Shoot! I kin bate any Spanyard buliyt that ever stole. Whait away ye scoundrel! This ink of Co. A. do be after makin' a dature so it be and its be billy-boo I'll be handlin' in yer back windex in a minute. An' there'll be waddy an' wallin' in would Madrid th' marnin' an' yer widdies will be after takin' in the buul foights wid other mafe persunage so they will."

And from behind came the answering roar, "Jerry! Corp. Jerry!"

It did not take a telegram from Blanco to let the enemy into the meaning of that move, and the trenches turned their powers to cut down the single flying figure. But never a pause did Jerry make until within a short distance of the green retreat. Then a wavering cry went up from the watchers for the gallant run was finished. Corp. O'Neill fell and rolled over and over on the ground with his rifle tightly clasped in his arms.

"Can you see him?" demanded the colonel, straining his eyes.

An officer near with a field glass answered that the uneven ground prevented him from sighting the body. Then the tension of anxiety was relaxed. From out the greenwood a rifle, with a good American ring, began to speak and in a moment Mauser messengers began to tatter the shrubbery there. The ground was fiercely plowed and cut branches were flung everywhere. Yet the solitary Jerry kept up his unique battle against the entire enemy. His lead sang and the exposed trenches and anxious brown men. Here and there along the lines the ground grew bright red. One after another ceased to fire and lay down in their places. The Spaniards renewed their efforts to remove the deadly corporal of Co. A. And at last a detachment of the enemy made a sally toward his hiding place. It was a disastrous move. Jerry's friends were on hand and few in that charge crept back to cover unharmed. Still the solitary rifle cracked away and more old country soldiers lost interest in the cause.

"Shure it's me wonderful intellit that reminded me fer to load meself wid all these cartridges," muttered the perspiring flank-mover, as he slipped his rifle to cool for the twentieth time. Then he went on "tindling to bulishness," calling to account the invaders of Cuba. An hour more past and each moment had meant an aggravating loss to the Spanish force. Crack! bang! whizz! the Irish Robinhood picked them off, one by one, until it was more than human could stand. After a short time the opposing forces beat a two-miles retreat, defeated by Corp. Jerry O'Neill, Esq.

The blue coats went wild with delight and that night was a Jerry O'Neill night in camp to be sure, although the corporal did not participate. He lay in the colonel's tent with a bandage about his thigh and a delighted grin upon his countenance. The orderly kept busy bringing him the best the cook could prepare. Sure Jerry was happy and, as he fell into a doze later he might have been heard murmuring:

"Shure there'll be waddy an' wallin' th' night in would Madrid th' night."

Oratorical Contest. A fair audience assembled in the auditorium of the Y.M.C.A. on Friday evening to witness the oratorical contest between the Philomathean Literary Society and the Y.M.C.A. Lyceum. The following orations were delivered:

"Reform, the Crying Need of the Century," B. W. Dutcher, L.M.C.A.; "Loyalty to the Flag," Jesse A. Martin, P.L.S.; "A Thought of the Hour," D. L. Cadwallader, Y.M.C.A.; "Acquisition of Territory," Dwight Chapin, P.L.S.

The award of honor was given to D. L. Cadwallader, who evidently possesses unusual native oratorical talent.

Giants in These Days. On August 19, 1783, the weight of Washington and some of his officers was taken at West Point. The official report is as follows: Gen. Washington, 209 pounds; Gen. Lincoln, 224; Gen. Knox, 280; Col. Michael Jackson, 422; Col. Henry Jackson, 235; Lieut.-Col. Huntington, 222; Lieut.-Col. Humphreys, 221. Gen. Huntington weighed only 122 pounds.

Mothers Who Let Their children Starve!

Of course they don't mean to. They are vexed every time they look at the "scrawny" child. Vexed at the pallor of the cheeks. Vexed at the irritability and peevishness of the little one they love. And they feed it everything which it can fancy or enjoy. What's the matter? Practically, starvation. For it is the office of food to nourish and to strengthen, and it is not the eating of food which nourishes, but the digestion and assimilation of what is eaten. Nourishment is not to be gauged by the activity of the mouth but by the activity of the stomach. There is the trouble in general, "weak stomach." The child eats enough, but the food does no good because it is not assimilated. It is not assimilated because the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are not able to supply the proper juices, by which food is converted into nourishment. Look at the condition rationally. Is it any use to give cod liver oil or the modified nastiness of emulsions? This is only another kind of food and the stomach can't take care of this food more than the other food. Suppose your coffee-mill clogs. Is it of any use to put more coffee into the mill? Until the obstruction is removed the addition of more coffee only increases the trouble. That's the way with the stomach. It's of no use to give it fats and special foods. First the obstructions must be removed and the organs of digestion and nutrition put into good working order. When this is done the "scrawny" child grows fat. The peevish child grows merry. The despondent child grows happy. The body is being nourished and the child is in sound health.

Just these results are brought about by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, cleanses the clogged digestive and nutritive system of obstructions, strengthens the stomach, and so enables Nature to convert the food into nutriment and to distribute it to blood and brain, bone and muscle.

Announcement Extraordinary!

Notwithstanding the fact that we have made every effort to close up our business on May 1, we find a large stock of Ladies' Garments still on our hands.

We made every arrangement to quit business in Los Angeles with the passing of April. With this end in view we sold all our store fixtures and they were moved out April 15, as you know. But we cannot go into a new business with this remaining stock upon our hands. Hence we have temporarily rented a store room at and moved all our remaining stock into it. Tomorrow morn will be the beginning of the end of the grandest sale ever consummated in Los Angeles.

Half and third and quarter prices will quickly accomplish our end. Bargains added to bargains will be the order from this date until the last garment is disposed of. Remember the new location—Remember that this is the grandest garment chance you have ever had offered you.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

(The Times freely publishes the views of correspondents without holding itself responsible for writers' opinions. Its brief, write plainly, state clearly. The space of 250 words, on the average, is sufficient for the expression of an idea. No attention paid to anonymous communications.)

"In the Name of Women."

A WOMAN, Los Angeles. The recent atrocity in the South have been done in the name of women. For shame that men—so-called—should cast such opprobrium upon our sex! When did a woman ever sanction such inhuman conduct? Do women hold men to be higher, nobler, better, when they sweep law, order and justice to the winds? Does it place woman upon a loftier pedestal to have men commit such crimes in her name? "We must protect our women," they say. Why don't you protect them from such disgrace as you have just heaped upon them? Protect them from the horror of having such fathers, husbands, brothers, sons and lovers. As the mob who remembered the Sabbath day and did not keep it. There is not in all the South, probably, a juror who would have voted otherwise than guilty, or a judge who would have hesitated to sentence the miserable wretch, who certainly should have been hanged, legally. Therefore, justice was certain, and it need not have been slow. But it was not mere justice that was wanted. That would have failed to satisfy the crowd of chivalrous, intelligent, educated white southern gentlemen, who by their horrible torture of a human being, their mad, wolfish fight for his fragments (why, in heaven's name, should any one want such a souvenir?) have made such a hideous record that they have done much to make the terrible crime of the black brute sink into minor importance. They have insulted the laws of not only their own State, but of the whole nation, and as no nation is higher than the men who make it, so upon us all rests the shame and disgrace. Do they stop to consider the terrible effect of such scenes upon the children, the nation's hope? How can a father teach a child humanity, Christianity or justice, when the child knows that the father has assisted in crimes that would sicken a painted savage? What lowers and degrades a man must also lower a woman, since neither can rise or fall without its effect upon the other, and the men of the South have placed a terrible stigma upon woman when they claim to do this in her name. If laws through inefficiency on the part of the administrators, are wrongly or maliciously interpreted, and it is impossible to get justice in the courts of our land, there might be some slight excuse for lynching—nothing can condone the torture of the victim—but it is not clear that justice could not be legally. It merely does not seem to have been tried that way. Uphold the laws of your land, men of the South. Give your loyal aid to your nation, your State and your officials, and if you will do this in the name of women, then, indeed, you have added a jewel worth having to your crown, and will win for yourselves the respect of the rest of your nation.

As to Hornets.

A. A. ALLEN, Los Angeles: If you tap a hornet's nest gently and stand far enough away for developments, the result is both interesting and amusing. If you tap a combine, monopoly or octopus the result is the same, although there was no intention of sending my recent communication to you about the proposed fire insurance ordinance of doing any tapping or other overt act. And, had not a bill of particulars been called for there would have been no need of again trespassing upon your valuable space. Having been asked for the document, however, I would state that the companies are in no wise considered in the ordinance, and therefore "all companies" are not placed on exactly the same basis. The idea is to tax individuals who breed winners in this community and whose efforts are all equally worthy of recognition—whether they be rich or whether they be poor.

The poor man, with small business, not being able to support his family and pay the tax levied by ordinance must move out of the way, and let the more fortunate possessor of this world's goods occupy his field. Thus, the rich man grows richer and the poor man grows poorer. While the ordinance only attempts to regulate the soliciting of insurance, those who are versed in the business well know that the companies themselves control the situation, and make their own rules governing rates and commission. The fewer people engaged the easier it is for the companies to control the situation, and the less competition the higher the rates. Hence it is in the interest of the fire insurance combine that the ordinance do pass.

As regards the bill at Sacramento, while on the one hand it is a law to predict that such a bill would not have been suggested had it not been for some one's benefit; that no law can be classified as irresponsible. Perhaps the naughty ones connected themselves elsewhere. Finally, if our City Council is anxious to increase the revenue and is willing to do so irrespective of combine influence, let it tax each company $20 per month or $240 per year, and thereby secure a revenue of $19,680. It will reach the pockets of the rich corporations who can afford to pay, and will not make beggars of the less fortunate fire insurance man.

Here's a Proposition!

E. E. CRANDALL, Los Angeles: What everybody says is not always true. Believing that the feasibility of man's opinion can be far better demonstrated by deeds than words, would like to make "Prof." H. Gaylord Wilshire a simple business proposition. Nothing done by man can be of more benefit to Southern California just at this time of threatened drought and want of irrigating water than the introduction of a power that can be produced without cost, to be used for propulsion of pumps to raise water for irrigation. My proposition is this: I will furnish a lot which is conveniently located and upon which is a good brick building, and will guarantee (give bond if necessary) to reimburse "Prof." Wilshire for time and all money expended in making practical experiments, if successful; otherwise he stand all expense, if he, on the other hand, will furnish the necessary machinery, placing it in position and operation, and thoroughly demonstrate that a surplusage of seven gallons can be had for an expenditure of three gallons of any fluid, gas, air or a power of any kind or nature whatsoever (be it liquid air, frozen electricity, congealed etherical blue, concentrated life or unmitigated gall), and that these seven surplus gallons can be used in a way that they will propel a stationary engine of power, anywhere between one and five horse. The "professor" is at liberty to produce any quantity necessary, in the proportions as given, to accomplish results. This proposition is not for any "damnable reiterations," or "treasonous assertions," but is intended for business. Now come on, "professor," with your free power and let's knock commercial values and industrial and social fabrics galley west and crooked. From present appearances by nature and verse needs an overhauling anyway, so come on; let's you and I make the beginning, and everlasting renown will be ours. We have just as much right to knock things as smithereens as Prof. Caliente, Pictet, Tripler or any other "professor."

Purple Cows and Things.

"JASA," Santa Monica: We are told that "whom the gods love they first make mad," and it seems rather true, from your editorial on the "Purple Cows," that the order of Universal Brotherhood had aroused your feelings, and as your nature and vocation is such that you have made it known in the plain way you did, which only gives impetus to the movement, and we would not resent the attack if an opportunity afforded. You have a great soul and a keen sense of justice, only a little veiled in the first of your comment, yet in the close you calmly say "that if universal brotherhood does not do any good, it will not do any serious harm." This is the broader view. We know that like the greater portion of the race, you have never investigated the merits of theosophy enough to learn that it is a scientific religion and a religious science; that evolution is the ladder on whose rungs all humanity have ascended and will continue to ascend until the godlike being has perfected his course. We call no disembodied souls back to this earth plane. We could not if we so desired. The shells are unmoored by us. We are too busy dealing with real living entities. All life is to us, and very animated, too. Every atom, the most infinitesimal is acting its part in the great drama of evolving the spiritual man through the crucible of earth life to its consummation on this planet. "There is nothing great, there is nothing small." Our mission is to proclaim to the worlds that brotherhood is a law in nature, and to be true to this, our ideas must be unlimited. The present leader, Mrs. Tingley, is a woman of deepest compassion and has spent the greater part of this life in aiding and uplifting souls in the ranks of theosophists, no innumerable conceptions recorded. We love humanity and want to help them as we are our brother's keeper, and they by a natural law have us in charge.

A Testament of War.

[Muriel Bailey in San Francisco Wave.] The Rev. Father McKinnon sat in his room at the California headquarters in Manila. Outside, the moon was shining warmly upon the long buildings, filled with the homes of California men, and upon the trees filled with fire-flies and the smooth lawn and tropical shrubbery of the Estada Major.

The Father had finished a long and hard day's work. In the small hospital, three men were dying and he had appointed them. He had visited the leper hospital and had distributed to the men and women, horrible in their different stages of decay, the eighty coppers apiece which the government allows weekly. The school-teachers of Manila had been interviewed and comforts of various natures had been satisfied. His services had been required by the Major-General, and he had given a long consultation with the Archbishop of Manila. There were also the hospitals that had been visited and a graveyard surveyed. Altogether, the Father had been extremely and unpleasantly busy.

As he sat down before his desk with a sigh of relief and shaded his eyes with his hand, he felt glad to think that no more harrowing scenes were to be endured for a short space of time. He sighed with thankfulness that, for a few hours, the sorrows of this strange land had dropped from his shoulders.

Then there came a knock at the door. "The transport Indiana arrived today. Your mail, sir."

The orderly placed a package of letters upon the table and closed the door.

The Father always opened the letters with the unfamiliar handwriting first. He had learned to know so well the contents of them. From sisters and sweethearts and fathers, and saddest of all, from mothers, asking for the last words of the loved ones, dead in the faraway land. He broke the seal of the first envelope—it was from a heart-broken wife; the second from a widow whose only son he had read the burial service that very morning, begging that he would get the boy's discharge. Then came one from a sister in far-off Boston, asking that he look after a brother, enlisted in the South Dakotas, from whom few letters had come of late.

He pushed them all from him and sat in deep thought. Such a great mass of sorrow, and no help for it. Hearts at home longing for the loved ones, and hearts out here longing for home. Out of his veranda he heard the jests and songs of the California boys, as they tried to while away the evening hours before taps.

"Come in," he called in answer to a knock.

"A messenger from the hospital, sir."

The Father reached for his cap and waited.

"Sir, Powers of the South Dakotas, is very low—he wants you."

"I will come immediately," the father said.

He rose and turned to the door, then he stopped and picked up the letter he had set down last. It was signed with the name of Powers.

The Father hurried through the moonlight to the Brigade Hospital. He did not notice the warm, balmy air, nor the picturesque figures of the natives, as they passed barefooted and silent along the quiet way. With the words of the letter from the sister in Boston still torturing him, he entered the long ward and met the steward.

"He is pretty low, sir," he hardly last until morning. I was sorry to disturb you, sir."

The father waved him aside and passed to the low cot and bent over the drawn, white face on the pillow. He spoke comforting words and prayed a fervent prayer, and, leaving him smiling, and content, promised to return in the morning. Then he went back to the Estada Major, and to his quarters and reread the letter.

The morning came! The reverend father drove slowly along the way that led to the Brigade Hospital, thoughtful and hoping. He drove in at the big gate. A crowd of bareheaded, brown-faced Filipinos were gathered about, and his pony shied. He turned to salute a sentry, and then he bowed to a physician and a major, and then his horse shied again.

This time he looked up. There was a hearse in the roadway.

He gave the reins to his muchacho and passed into the building.

"Powers died late last night," the steward said. "I have just sent for you."

Some of the dead man's comrades were draping the Stars and Stripes over the unseemly blackness of the casket. The father stooped and looked a fold of it over the casket. Some way he felt impotent; there was so little left for him to do in answer to the letter. Then he lifted up his hands and prayed.

Outside, in the early morning sunshine, the California band played softly:

Softly now the break of day,
Steals from shades of night away—
Then from sin, from sorrow free,
Lord I would abide with thee.

The convalescents, waiting about, turned their heads away as the six men, unarmed, helmet in hand, carried the comrade out from the building where he had suffered and died for his country. Then the band filed slowly out of the gate; the military guard, four abreast, followed the hearse, its horrors hid by the halo of Old Glory cast about it, and then the bereaved company, in light marching order, with white uniforms and bayonets glistening in the sunshine, their thoughts turned sadly to other things.

My country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing.
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light,
Protect us with thy might,
Great God, our King.

Swinging into the slow, even pace, the men marched down the Calle de Concepcion and turned into Calle San Marcelino on the way to Paro. As solemn a sight as was ever gazed upon.

It is more glorious, perhaps, to be killed on the field of battle, mangled with shells, or pierced with shot, but so it is easier. There is not one of these boys who would not rather face the cannon than be carried, weak and helpless, into the hospitals, to lie there, day after day, in the heat, suffering and homesick, without the touch of a loving hand or the tender comfort of sweet words or a last kiss to die with, and yet remembering them all the while.

One does not expect kisses on the battlefield, and one has the comfort of having been brave to die with. Honor them, friends, they deserve it.

Motion Is A Law of Life

It is stamped upon the ray of sunlight, the blade of grass, the revolving world. Action is necessary to health. Sluggishness of bodily functions comes from overtaxing the organs or from wasted force. This condition comes from Disease—Decay—Death. Goaded by overreaching ambitions or persistent disregard of strength, many men overtax their powers and break down. In this condition Electricity is the one dominant restorer. But it must be rightly applied. Electricity feeds your vitality and gives a natural animus to the organs of life. It is gone. Then the vital organs crave for it as the stomach for food. Under this need man has resorted to rubbings, hot applications, massage, plasters, laying-on-of hands, static batteries. All these are brilliantly surpassed by that most perfect method of Medico-Electricity.

Dr. Sanden's Electric Belt.

If then you would restore and conserve your vital power; if you would master that disease which has fastened on your system, entailing pain, debility, sleeplessness, I will freely advise for your case. Write for my book, "Three Classes of Men." It is free, and the most joyful day in your life will be that on which my Belt clasps your body. Then you will wonder why you took so much medicine before.

Read This Man's Words.

"During the short time I've used your Belt it has benefited me very much. Distress has gone; weakness entirely cured. I sleep well and appetite is good."

SICK PEOPLE MADE WELL!

Thousands are being Cured Annually by the Advanced Methods Employed by

The Homo-Alo Staff of Physicians and Surgeons

The Homo-Alo Treatment is the highest achievement of medical science. By its use thousands have been restored to health and happiness throughout the United States whose cases had been given up as hopeless by physicians of experience and wide reputation. The Homo-Alo method has revolutionized the treatment of difficult and obscure diseases and has properly demonstrated to the world that in the greater number of cases of nervous, chronic and private diseases a prompt and perfect cure can more surely and quickly be obtained by this method than by all the other methods combined. In order to be successful in the treatment of diseases, it is necessary to strike out the root of the evil. The principal cause of the Homo-Alo Physicians' success in curing diseases is due to the fact that they always make a thorough examination, find out the cause of the trouble, and remove the same by a natural channel, thereby leaving the system in a perfectly healthy condition.

IMPORTANCE OF THE STOMACH.—To effect a permanent cure in any disease, it is absolutely essential that the stomach be gotten into a perfectly healthy condition so that it can supply the proper nourishment to the diseased organs by enriching the blood and thereby assisting Nature in her function of keeping up the health. As we depend upon the lungs to extract the oxygen from the air we breathe, so we depend upon the stomach to extract the nourishment from the food we eat.

IN THE HEALTHY STOMACH.—Thousands of little glands situated in the lining membrane are free to pour out the gastric juices that are needed to digest the food. With the lining membrane in a diseased condition we find the little glands are closed and their exit are blocked by the sticky mucus which has resulted from the inflamed condition, and consequently not sufficient amount of gastric juices are poured into the stomach. It is impossible for the stomach to properly digest the food so that sufficient assimilation takes place to keep up the nutrition of the body.

THE OLD SCHOOL OF DOCTORS' method of treating with the stomach consisted in purges, emetics and drugs, that irritated and inflamed the mucous membrane of the stomach instead of soothing and quieting the mucous membrane and nervous system that control the same. It could be well likened to heating dry fuel on a smoldering fire. WHEN ONCE HEALED the lining mucous membrane of the stomach is enabled to serve its purpose. Nature is then free to serve. Beginning immediately after the introduction of the Homo-Alo Treatment the symptoms of disease of the stomach pass away one by one. The mucus and slime forming in the throat and mouth soon become less; the appetite for breakfast returns, there is no more nausea where there should be a desire for food, the water-brash and bloating after taking of food gives place to a pleasant sense of fullness on the taking of a good meal, there is no longer discomfort experienced while the heavy meal is in the progress of being converted into nourishment for the blood, the foul gases that

Truss Thrown Away

I suffered from a rupture for 23 years and tried every kind of truss and treatment, all guaranteeing to cure, but got only bad results, and at last when I could scarcely walk I went to Prof. Joseph Pandey, 642 South Main St.

the well-known European Specialist in Rupture Curing by a new and natural method, without operation, injection or detention from business. Today I am happy to say I am CURED by Prof. Fandrey and have gained 12 lbs. weight. I will gladly answer any questions for fellow sufferers.

GREAT CHANGES HAVE BEEN WROUGHT,

but the grand finale is not yet. Finishing touches will make the upper floors still more beautiful. Changes on the main floor will give more room for stocks, more comfort to visitors and better facilities for display. Many visitors from the north have already told us that no store in California will be so well lighted, roomy, conveniently arranged, well stocked, carefully managed or centrally located as ours when its expansion is complete. This from people who know San Francisco well. We are proud of the distinction. All Los Angeles should be equally so. It means much for the growth of this city to be able to boast of the largest and best store in the State, if not on the whole Coast.

This store was built for you, by you. It is for your convenience. Important happenings are planned for this week. The keynote, foundation stone and entire structure of each one is

Everlastingly giving the Most for the Money

Tailored Dresses

The matter of fit is a most important one. Any gown you buy here will be made to fit perfectly. No risks to run, you see the fit before you buy. These dresses are made by men tailors who are peers at their trade.

Men-tailored suits, with satin lined, fly front jackets and sheath skirts, peraline lined, materials are brown and grey chevrons and navy black sequins, silk lined throughout. $10.00

Tailor-made suits of blue and tan Venetian cloths, double breasted, tight fitting jackets and sheath skirts, trimmed with buttons, excellent suits for. $16.50

Men-tailored suits of imported Venetian cloth in tan, grey and black, tight fitting jackets, silk lined throughout. $35.00

Men-tailored suits with fly front jackets and plain sheath skirts, entire suit lined with fancy taffeta silk, at. $25.00

Linen Skirts.

200 plain linen dress skirts have just been received; they hang properly and are perfect fitting; these skirts are pure linen and we offer them this week at. $2.00

Separate linen skirts, trimmed with white cord and buttons; they are "in season" and very excellent skirts; to be offered at. $2.50

Very heavy linen skirts, cut extra full shape and trimmed with buttons in back; perfect in every particular; at. $2.75

Elegant Jackets

An assortment that can in no way be bettered; prices range from the cheapest to the best. We offer a covert cloth jacket in 6-button reefer style, dip front, all lined with changeable taffeta silk; this week at. $9.00

Summer Waists

Truly there is no prettier showing of cool summer waists to be seen in the far west. Proper materials and correct styles. A particularly strong line including striped ginghams, and white or printed lawns is selling at. $1.50

Some very stylish waists are made of imported welts in blue, lavender and black; selling at. $2.00

Another line is made of genuine Anderson gingham in the most popular striped weaves, all colors; selling at. $2.50

Silk Waists.

Styles to please anyone and quantity enough to supply every one. A very large assortment of plain taffeta silk waists in all the new colorings and handsomely corded. One special style we offer this week is corded back and front and nicely lined; at. $5.85

Moving Sale of Dress Stuffs.

What a dress goods store we will have when the alterations are completed. It will expand and lengthen until both sides of the main aisle, extending from Spring Street to New High Street, will be one continued array of dress stuffs—silks and wools. But about that later. The matter of the moment is the reductions that go into effect Monday morning. The dress goods shelving is to be all torn down and built anew. Every yard of goods will be moved. We want to sell as much as possible this week. We want to open the new department with new goods; therefore

Lace Curtain Celebration

We wished to reserve this occasion until the completion of the whole store, but our curtain buyer says these curtain values are too good to keep, too good to withhold. These curtains were bought much underpriced and they are the newest and best styles of the season. Plenty of room to show them, plenty of light and so high above the noise and dust of the city that mountain breezes tempt you to linger in this comfortably arranged store. You'll be a willing guest at this celebration.

Ruffled muslin curtains, plain body with 5-inch ruffle, 3 yards long and 40 inches wide, will launder well; $1.25 values; selling at. 89¢

Ruffled muslin curtains, figured design with 7-inch ruffle, 3 yards long and 40 inches wide, very pretty and worth $1.50 a pair; selling at. 98¢

Point de Calais, one of the handsomest curtains made, very fine net with beautiful geometrical designs and an extra strong, corded edge, 3 1/2 yds long and 50 inches wide, $10.00 curtains; on sale at. $9.95

Men's Suits

There is a wide range from $6.50 to $20.00, yet each price, and those between represent more goodness and style than the same money will buy in any other store. Yes, we can prove it. Try to match either of these suits and you will be a firm friend of our buying and selling policy.

At $20.00 we show the handsomest and best line of men's suits, and we consider the merchant tailor our only competitor. We mention one particular line—the herringbone pattern, tan worsted, single-breasted sack, with graceful rolling soft lapels, single piped, edge stitching.

Our $6.50 men's suits will compare most favorably with any $8.50 and many $10.00 suits in exclusive clothing houses. We have a large number of styles in all wool chevrons and tweeds in light and dark shades of gray and brown.

Boys' Suits

For boys of 3 to 7 years we show twenty styles of middie suits, deep collar and vestee trimmed with contrasting cloths and handsomely braided with soutache. Remarkably good for. $2.50

For boys of 8 to 16 years, the continuation of the sale of double breasted, high grade suits made of strictly all wool chevrons, with double seats and knees; worth double. $1.89

Youths' Suits

Nobby, careful dressers among young men of 14 to 19 years are finding just what their taste dictates among these gray and tan checked worsteds with single breasted coat and double breasted vests and narrow cut pants, at. $1.25

Golf Vests

The correct dresser wears a golf vest. Scotch plaids are much in demand. In New York they are the fad. We are introducing some very elegant styles, made of all wool cheviot, at $4.00, $5.00 and. $7.50

Suit Cases

No man should be without a dress suit case. We have a good Irish linen, lined case with leather bound corners, copper riveted, patent spring brass lock and leather handles; on sale at. $2.75

Men's Shoes

The world's best shoemakers contribute to our assortment at this price. You can trust them in wear, you can depend upon their stylishness, and you can bank upon their being better than the average at this price. Every toe shape, every last, every leather. There are no better shoes to be had under $5.00. Even then you'll have to get our $5.00 Shoes. Try a pair.

Men's Tan, Vici Kid Shoes in medium dark shades, made on the new Cambridge toes, with well soles; as nobby in appearance and as well made as any shoe can be; one of our favorites at. $3.50

Men's black, sterling kid Lace Shoes, hand-sewed welts, made on the Cambridge last, with smooth nickel eyelets and sleeper inner sole. This leather possesses the best wearing qualities of any yet produced. $3.50

One is a hand-turned lace shoe, made with narrow coin toes, Louis XV. heels, diamond shaped kid tips; very superior workmanship and very dainty. $3.50

South entrance, left.

If in doubt about the pronunciation of this name say Mr. E. Bell and you will have it right. If in doubt about their quality listen to the remarks of women buying their second or third pair. Two new lasts have just been added. $3.50

An Unequaled Lace Showing

New York had any idea of the beauty that their declaration in favor of laces would create. Created beauty is properly applied to the laces of this season. New designs and new developments of old forms and kinds. Of course Chantilly bow knots take the lead; then there are the "all-overs" with edges to match and Renaissance in three widths and insertion to match. Our lace showing is a satisfactory one. The prices are doubly so.

An excellent line of imitation Renaissance laces, in beautiful patterns, ranging in price from $1.50 a yard down to. 25¢

Lace "all-overs" in 25 different patterns, cream and white. 25¢

White or cream lace insertions from 1/4 to 3 inches wide, to match the "all-overs"; all new patterns, and range in price from $1.50 a yard down to. 12¢

Chamois Gloves

A trick of the glove trade is to remove the grain from sheep-skin and call it chamois. Such gloves stretch badly and wear out quickly. Our chamois gloves are made of genuine chamois skin, are properly cut and will fit as well as a kid-skin glove. They have "Paris Point" embroidered backs, two clasps, and come in white, mode, gray and pearl; they can be washed in soap and water with. $1.00

50c Hos- iery for 25c.

It never rains but it pours. On top of our great hosiery sale of last week comes another. Greater in value giving, but not so varied in price. All go at one price. The line includes 35c, 39c, 45c and 50c grades of hosiery for women, six different weights of plain black, two weights of lisle thread in black, five styles of ribbed and drop-stitch patterns in black. Every pair is well applied, firm, fine and well finished; choose from the assortment while they last at. 25¢

Main Entrance, Right.

Priceless Piques

Some of the season's earliest patterns are not to be had for love or money. Prices have gone skyward. New York is "holding up" western merchants who are "short" on piques. There is no advance in our prices. When we own a material cheaply, we sell it cheaply. These were bought in abundance, they go to you now at fully 25 per cent less than usual prices about town.

White Piques with printed colored patterns, pink, light blue, turquoise and black; stylish as well as moderate in price. 12¢

Piques with fancy printed figures, stripes and checks; colors, blue, pink, green and black on pure white grounds; selling at. 15¢

One lot of fancy colored Piques in polka dots, figures and stripes; a very stylish pattern, selling at. 20¢

Charming Things for Little Folk

The Lilliputian corner is full to overflowing with the prettiest of the pretty, the daintiest of the dainty. Ribbons and Point de Venise laces are used for trimming Bedford cord cloaks. Many of the caps are hand made; shawls are hand embroidered; every article is well made; every style is a pretty one.

Infants' fine lawn caps trimmed with Valenciennes lace and rosette of pink and blue ribbon. 50¢

Children's fancy straw hats, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and rosette of pink and blue ribbon. $1.25

Infants' short cloaks of Bedford cord, made with double collar, trimmed with Point de Venise lace, sizes 6 months to 2 years, at. $4.50

Children's gingham and percale dresses, trimmed with Valenciennes lace, sizes 6 months to 2 years, at. 50¢

Children's fine lawn dresses made with white tulle yoke, finished with wide ruffle edged with Valenciennes lace, size 1 to 5 years, at. $1.00

Novelties in Women's Ties

This collection is very much out of the ordinary. Materials that you are familiar with are used, but the shapes and designs are new. Plenty to select from, but few of a kind. The chief charm of this showing is its variety.

Club bow ties in light, dainty, medium and dark shades of blue and lavender and white at. 25¢

Mascot pique ties in puff designs, white, blue and lavender and white at. 25¢

Pique puff ties with stocks in assorted colors, new designs and very dainty, selling at. 50¢

Fancy sat a puff ties in assorted patterns with stock collar, very desirable. $1.00

Fancy silk and satin puff ties with separate stock collars, can be worn with or without collar, at. $1.00

Women's Knitwear

Women want to feel the freedom of the New Women's Garment Store. Plenty of room and light. The best grades of goods and the lowest possible prices. The following are selected for today's mention because of their unusual goodness-for-price.

Women's fine Swiss ribbed vests of merzerized cotton with low neck and no sleeves; at. 50¢

Fine lisle vests, low neck and sleeveless, finished with hand-crocheted edge, colors pink, blue and cream; at. 98¢

Fine silk vests with low neck and no sleeves, finished with hand-crocheted edge, colors pink, blue and cream; at. $1.00

Fine Swiss ribbed vests, with high neck and long sleeves, pique to match in knee and ankle lengths; at. 55¢

Our New Chiropodist. We are especially fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Ivett, who made a host of friends while at the Hamman Baths of this city. The doctor treats corns and all diseases of the feet, and makes a specialty of displaced or deformed toes. He is to be found on the second floor, next the Manicuring Department. Our established low prices will still prevail; for instance, single corn, painlessly extracted. 25¢

Rubber Goods

The goodness of rubber depends largely upon its age. Really good qualities, if kept for any length of time near chemicals or drugs, will decompose to a greater or lesser extent. Our rubber goods are made by the very best makers. We keep them in a cool, well ventilated lockers apart from the drugs, and guarantee every piece to be perfect and of superior quality. Our prices are the lowest quoted anywhere.

Ladies' rubber gloves 90¢
Butler rubber complexion brushes 40¢
Household bulb syringes, 1 hard rubber pipes, 75¢
Globe bulb syringes, 1 hard rubber pipes, 75¢
Rubber feeding nipples, 4 for 10¢
2-quart fountain syringes, 1 hard rubber pipes, 80¢
4-quart fountain syringes, 1 hard rubber pipes, 75¢
Hot water bottles, 2 quarts at 60¢
Household bulb syringes, 1 hard rubber pipes, 75¢
Health rapid flow fountain syringes in 3 sizes, extra large hose, 2 quarts at $1.15, 1 quart at $1.30, and 4 quarts at $1.25

Millinery Reductions

An unlooked-for delay of three or four days prevents us from opening our new Millinery Salon Monday as we had anticipated. No hats that have ever been shown will find place in our new store; every one will be fresh from the packing case. In the meantime we are closing out our present stock at wonderfully low prices. They are going very fast, but we are never contented; hence these reductions:

95¢ hats reduced to 10¢
50¢ hats reduced to 50¢
75¢ hats reduced to 59¢
1.00 hats reduced to 69¢
1.25 hats reduced to 89¢
1.50 hats reduced to 99¢
2.00 hats reduced to 1.49
2.50 hats reduced to 1.69

"Bonn" China at Half

While in New York our buyer bought a cask of "Bonn" china as a memento that had never been opened. It was like buying a lottery ticket, but he drew a prize. The pieces turn out to be worth more than double the price paid, and we will sell them as we bought them, at average half price. No two pieces alike, every piece is stippled with gold and decorated as only the Germans of Bonn can decorate. Each one is a work of art; priced as follows:

Sauce plates will sell at 10¢.
Salad plates will sell at 10¢.
Tea pot tiles at 10¢ and 20¢.
Cake plates on sale at 10¢.
Salad bowls at 25¢ to 50¢.
Tea pots at 50¢ to 100¢.
Fancy fruit dishes $1.00 to $2.00.
Salad trays at $1.00 to $1.50.
Covered cheese dishes $1.00 to $2.00.
Cracker jars 50¢ to $1.00.
Pitchers, all sizes, 25¢ to $1.00.
Open vegetable dishes 15¢ to 50¢.
Third floor, elevator.
